FOUR DIE IN TRAIN-AUTO CRASH

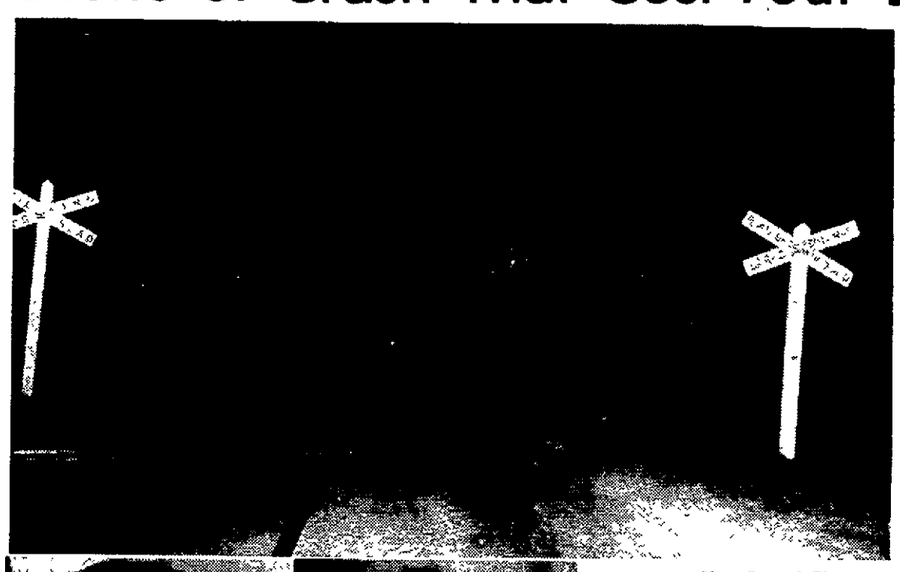
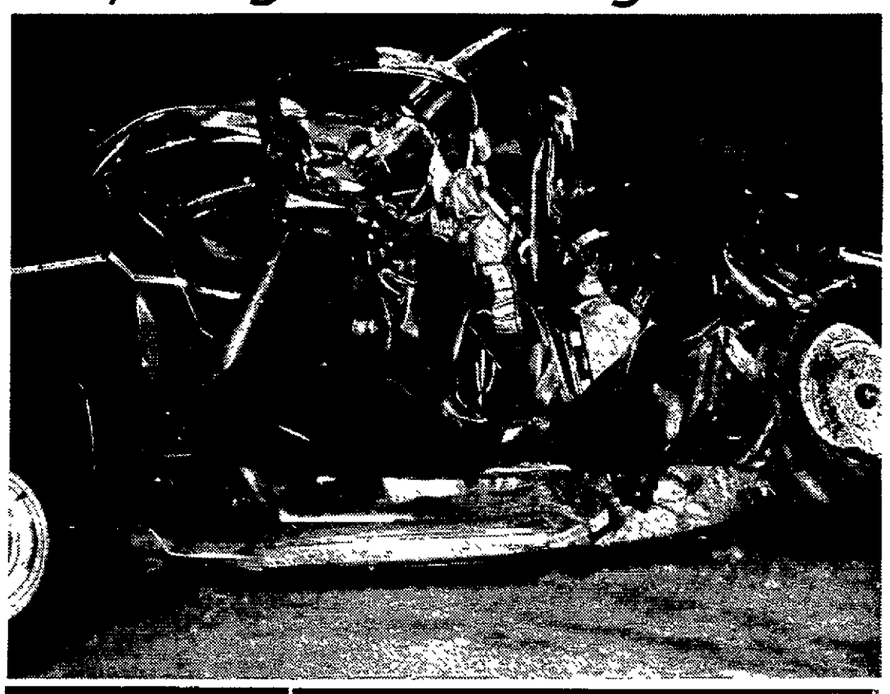
Scene of Crash That Cost Four Lives, Tangled Wreckage of Car





—News-Journal Photos.

A dark crossing, a crumpled car and four crushed bodies told the story today of last night's tragic train-automobile accident near Willard where three Mansfield youths and a Shiloh girl were killed. At top left is the B. & O. crossing over U. S. Route 224, where the accident occurred. The crossing is marked only by the two cross-arm signs. Top right is a close-up of the wrecked car, showing how the right side was twisted and smashed. Lower right is another view of the car, showing how the front end was literally ground to bits. The youth shown under the wreckage of the car is Jack Long, East Mansfield, who was the first to identify the three Mansfield victims. At lower left is Jesse W. Hamlin, 22, of 83 North Willis avenue, one of the four victims. Next to Hamlin is James F. Faugl, also 22, another victim. The car was owned by Henry Harfman, 26, of East Mansfield, who was believed to have been driving. The car was struck by the tender of a B. & O. work train locomotive, which was backing over the crossing. Force of the impact and the subsequent dragging of the car tore the engine out of the automobile, practically pulverized some of the shatter-proof glass and twisted what had been a round steering wheel into the shape of a pretzel.

3 Mansfielders And Shiloh Girl Crushed In Car

Broken Bodies, Wrecked Automobile Carried 150 Feet Down Track By B. and O. Engine Near Willard; Remain Unidentified 3 Hours.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

The worst highway tragedy in recent years in the Mansfield area last night claimed the lives of three Mansfield youths and an 18-year-old Shiloh girl who were crushed to death in a train-automobile collision at a B. and O. grade crossing on U. S. route 224 one mile west of New Haven and 23 miles north of Mansfield.

Killed in the crash which occurred at about 9 p. m. were:

Henry David Harfman, 26, of East Mansfield, believed to have been the driver of the car.

James F. Faugl, jr., 21, of 307 Third avenue.

Jesse W. Hamlin, 22, of 83 North Willis avenue.

Miss Janet Williams, 18, of Shiloh.

The bodies, broken and twisted as the automobile was scraped and pushed along the tracks for 150 feet by the locomotive tender, remained in mortuaries at Willard for several hours before any were identified.

Badly lacerated and with most of the bones crushed, the body of Miss Williams was not identified until 9 a. m. today, 12 hours after the tragedy.

Bodies of young Hamlin and Faugl, also badly mutilated, were definitely identified three hours after the accident by four Mansfield friends, one of whom had been invited but declined to go with the trio of Mansfielders on a "date" trip to Willard.

Identification of the girl was established this morning by Harry Moore, Willard, her great-uncle, according to Homer F. Sherbundy, Willard patrolman, who contacted dozens of persons before he located a relative of the girl.

Officers said the car, headed east toward New Haven, apparently struck the corner of the tender of the locomotive which was backing north into Willard, pulling a work train. The crossing is unprotected except for the usual white markers on either side. A field of corn west of the tracks partly obscures the view of motorists approaching from that side.

Willard and Huron county authorities and state highway patrolmen from Bellevue worked for two hours to release the bodies of the three youths from the wreckage of the car. The girl's body was found beneath the car about 150 feet from the grade crossing.

The tracks on the Newark-Willard line of the B. and O. through Mansfield were blocked while authorities removed the wreckage. The automobile, a 1941 model coach purchased only three weeks ago by Harfman, was demolished as the backing locomotive pushed it over the railroad ties.

Authorities said the wreckage of the car was wedged so tightly under the tender of the locomotive that a second engine, sent to the accident scene from Willard, pulled the twisted steel frame away from the locomotive that struck the car. The motor was torn completely out of the car by the impact, and the front and right side were smashed into an accordion-like mass.

Harfman and Hamlin were employed at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant and Faugl was a part-

Admit Heavy Pressure On Leningrad In Siege

Nazis Claim Destruction of Trapped Armies Progressing East of Kiev; British Planes Attack Finns.

(By Associated Press)

Whole battalions of German shock troops have been blown to pieces by minefields in an attack on the Crimea, advices reaching London said today, and the Russians were reported to have the situation in hand after stemming two Nazi assaults.

German parachute troops in the attack were declared to have been annihilated.

In the siege of Leningrad, the Russians admitted that German siege armies were steadily increasing their pressure despite colossal losses, but declared that a series of battles had hurled the Germans back from several advanced lines.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, reported that Russian troops at one point on Leningrad's approaches had gained five miles and recaptured four villages.

Nazi parachute troops and infantry were reported continuing the assault on the Crimean peninsula, battering fiercely at Soviet

Mansfield Pays Tribute Today To Johnny Appleseed

Pupils in all Mansfield high schools and in Madison township high school paid tribute to one of Ohio's outstanding pioneers, as they gathered in their respective auditoriums at assembly periods to hear speakers tell them about the life of John Chapman, better known as Johnny Appleseed.

At Madison high school Dr. John W. Stockwell, author and religious lecturer from Philadelphia, discussed the pioneer tree planter in relation to his religious beliefs, which, he said, were based on the necessity for a simple life, a part of the teachings of Emanuel Swedenborg, Swedish philosopher.

The three Mansfield high schools heard an address on the life of Appleseed by Judge Guy B. Findley, Lorain county common pleas judge and president of the Ohio Forestry association.

Today's scheduled activities in honor of the Ohio pioneer brought to a close a week's celebration in city and county schools commemorating the Life of Chapman and designated by Gov. John W. Bricker, as "Johnny Appleseed Week" at the request of Mrs. Anna Long Onstott of Mansfield.

CLEAR CITY OF STORM DEBRIS

Workers Remove Fallen Trees as Damage Estimates Run To Thousands.

Workers today were completing their task of carting away piles of debris left by yesterday's 50-mile gale.

Street department employes worked far into the early morning hours removing fallen trees and branches which cluttered many of the main thoroughfares.

Yesterday's storm broke the 90-degree heat wave which had struck the city earlier this week. The weather forecast calls for slightly cooler weather tonight with Saturday being fair and warmer.

Highest point hit by the mercury yesterday was 68 degrees while the low this morning was 49.

Although several large trees fell in the city, one hitting an automobile, the greatest part of the damage was caused in the county where farmers and utility companies estimated their loss would run to thousands of dollars.

The Ohio Public Service company said that at least a dozen poles had cracked beneath the combined weight of the wires and the heavy wind. Most of the damaged poles were in the northern part of the county.

Draft Boards Get 3 More Weeks To Fill Quota of 129

Richland county selective service boards today had been granted three more weeks to fill their quota of 129 selectees for October, heaviest for any month since the induction of men for miltary training began nearly a year ago.

State draft headquarters asked the boards to have the selectees ready for induction at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Monday, Oct. 27. Earlier instructions had set Oct. 6 for the tentative induction date, causing the county boards to hurry physical examinations for youths in order to meet the quota. Board 2, however, will order three colored youths to Columbus Oct. 8 for induction.

Windsor has pledged the "cordial cooperation" of the British West Indies Isles in defense of the American mainland. In his only formal speech of his visit here he revealed that work had started this week on the United States seaplane base on the island of Great Exuma.

Windsor's first call today was on Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. The duchess did not accompany the duke on his final round of official calls. She remained at the British embassy until time for luncheon with her aunt, Mrs. Buchanan Merryman.

Says Movie Probers Undermine FDR Policy

Senator Asks Dies Committee Action On Anti-British Propaganda As Investigation Row Flares.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A row broke out at the senate movie propaganda hearing today as Sen. McFarland (D., Ariz.), pounding the table with his first, charged committee members with seeking to undermine President Roosevelt and create prejudice against Great Britain.

His face flaming red, the Arizona senator challenged the committee to take the matter before the senate, and said he would ask the Dies committee to investigate alleged anti-British stories.

McFarland was aroused because Sen. Tobey (R., N.H.) said yesterday he had been informed that the head of a Washington secretarial school had been told by the British purchasing commission that the commission would not hire anyone with Irish, German or Jewish racial strains.

"I'll get the witness here this afternoon," interjected Tobey.

"I consider a statement of that kind creates more race prejudice than anything else," shouted McFarland. "I called the British embassy and asked them to check on their employes and they said it was untrue."

McFarland charged that Sen. Clark (D) Ida., chairman of the senate committee and Tobey both

LIST LENGTHENS

More South American Firms Cited In Drive on Axis.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Three hundred names of firms and individuals were added today to the "black list" by which the United States is attempting to stifle Axis trade ties in South America.

Simultaneously, 65 names were removed from the original list of 1,800 firms and individuals in Latin America which was made public by President Roosevelt on July 17.

The state department explained the additions as the result of continuing study of Axis trade connections, and said the deletions were the results of satisfactory corrective action taken since July.

Placing of names on the list puts them in the category of German and Italian Nationals, prevents exports to them of American goods and freezes their assets in the U. S.

GOING UP

Liquor Prices Scheduled For Boost On Oct. 1.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Liquor prices in Ohio will go up 20 to 25 cents a quart effective Oct. 1, because of the new federal defense tax, State Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor announced today. The increase in each case will be exactly the amount of the tax, he said.

The tax is 25 cents per quart on 100 proof whiskies, and proportionately the same on brands of lesser alcoholic content, Taylor explained.

NEUTRALITY ACT REPEAL BALKED

Administration Leaders Seen Favoring Revisions Over McKellar Proposal.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Administration lieutenants in congress were reported today to have rejected a proposal for outright repeal of the neutrality act and to be ready to work instead for legislation making vital revisions.

The repeal proposal was introduced yesterday by Sen. McKellar (D.-Tenn.), a consistent administration supporter. McKellar, who told the senate that the neutrality law established a policy which "no great nation like ours can indulge in," said today he had acted entirely on his own responsibility. He added he did not know whether the administration would approve complete repeal of the neutrality law.

One well-advised leader told reporters that McKellar's measure was not acceptable to the administration. He said the legislation recommended by President Roosevelt next week probably would follow the lines followed Wednesday by Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee.

Connally suggested that the neutrality law be amended to permit the arming of American ships and to allow them to enter presently-forbidden belligerent ports and combat zones.

Senator Bridges (R.-N. H.), meanwhile, told reporters that he favored either complete repeal or substantial modification of the neutrality law.

"I was one of the six senators who voted against it in 1939," he recalled, "and I still don't believe you can legislate peace."

It generally was assumed that President Roosevelt would discuss the entire question of neutrality repeal or revision with his congressional leaders next Monday and would weigh well their advice on what legislation to recommend.

SAVES CREW

Coast Guard Removes Seamen From Beached Vessel.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I.—(U.P.)—Coast guards removed the 41-man crew from the 3,000-ton freighter Essex today a few hours after she was beached on southeast light shoals when battering seas threatened to sink her.

The crew of the Essex first refused to abandon their ship which had 30 feet of water in her engine rooms when the coast guard cutter Argo reached the scene.

The ship was loaded with 600 tons of cork and 500 tons of sand ballast.

Two Girls End 3100-Mile Horseback Ride; Reach West Coast In Six Months

Galionite and Friend Encounter Hardships of Pioneer Days.

TWO 22-year-old girls, Miss Virginia Shumaker of Galion and Mrs. Myldred Bickham Binau of Upper Sandusky, have completed their 3,100-mile horseback trip from their homes to Los Angeles, Cal., according to Associated Press reports from the western city today. The young women who'd rather ride than eat—and did for 40 hours—have been on the road for almost six months.

Virginia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Shumaker of near Galion, and is well-known in this vicinity. She and Mrs. Binau own a stable of horses in Upper Sandusky.

The girls wore out a dozen pairs of jodhpurs, not to mention several pairs of boots and riding shirts.

They started their trek April 12 and are riding 20 miles more to Santa Monica today to reward their mounts with an

Admit Heavy Pressure Upon Leningrad; Nazis Lash Trapped Armies.

lines stretched across the bottleneck Perekop isthmus, only five to eight miles wide.

The terrain was described as advantageous for the Russians, with numerous small lakes and marshlands forming natural defense barriers.

To the north, Adolf Hitler's high command reported that the destruction of four Red armies trapped east of Kiev was "progressing relentlessly," with the number of Soviet prisoners now standing at 492,000.

This claim followed an official Soviet denial of an earlier Berlin announcement that 380,000 Russian troops had been captured in the Kiev battle.

Calling the Nazi assertion "a fresh Hitlerite fake," a Red army communique reported:

"The fierce struggle is continuing on the Kiev front."

The British radio, quoting a Moscow spokesman, said the Germans launched their initial attack on the Crimea Wednesday night, hurling tanks, mechanized infantry and a number of parachute troops into the assault after a heavy artillery bombardment.

"The Russians waited behind vast minefields," the account continued. "Whole battalions of Germans are said to have been blown to pieces.

"The enemy withheld to reform, eight hours later. But they were caught in the fire of Russian long-range artillery from the isthmus and from the bay to the west of the isthmus.

"Just before noon yesterday, the German attack was renewed. One German infiltration was made in the Russian lines but it was soon surrounded and annihilated."

Strategically important as the site of Russia's great Black sea naval base of Sebastopol, the Crimean peninsula would also provide a stepping-stone for a German thrust into the Caucasus oil fields across the narrow mouth of the Sea of Azov.

Coincident with this reported blow to Hitler's invasion forces in the far south, Berlin admitted that the Russians were attacking with mounting fury on the north central front, apparently in the vicinity of Velizh, 70 miles northwest of Smolensk.

Nazi military dispatches said great masses of Russian troops were storming German trenches on the east bank of the Dvina river unsuccessfully. In the same area, Soviet reports said the Germans had been routed with more than 2,500 Nazis killed.

On the bloody Leningrad front, German dispatches pictured the old-time capital of imperialist Russia as being slowly reduced to ruins as house-to-house fighting raged without halt in suburban streets.

Dispatches from the Finnish front around Leningrad said British aircraft had suddenly appeared against the Finns on the Karelian isthmus, with a number of Spitfires already shot down in air fights.

Finnish officers were quoted as saying that so far only Russian airmen had been identified in the wrecked machines. A Soviet communique said British and Russian fliers operating together had bagged 26 German planes on one sector of the front.

In London, Premier Emmanuel Tsourderos of the refugee Greek government said he had received reports of frequent clashes between Germans and Italians occupying Greece and said it had been necessary to send 14 Italian divisions to occupy the southern part of the country.

Both Rome and London reported a spurt in activity on the Libyan desert front in North Africa, with Fascist dispatches stating that the British were massing large forces in Egypt for a possible major offensive.

Moscow had an air-raid alarm for the third successive night. The Moscow radio said the planes were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

In the Far East, Japan began a subdued observance of tomorrow's first anniversary of her entry into the Rome-Berlin alliance by stressing asserted world peace aims of the Axis.

Celebrations were restricted; in some instances, pro-Axis leaders were silenced by government order.

Nobumbumi Ito, Japanese cabinet spokesman, declared that the totalitarian pact was "not like military alliances of the past"—made for advantages in the prosecution of war—but that its primary objective was peace and that Japan would retain her ties to this end.

Ito quoted Emperor Hirohito's dictum that "we fervently hope cessation of disturbances and restoration of peace will be realized as swiftly as possible."

During her year in the Axis bloc, Japan has gone through another exhausting 12 months of war with China and seen her world trade virtually disappear.

On the Chinese-Japanese battlefront, Japanese dispatches reported that four of seven Chinese armies had been smashed in the Japanese drive on Changsha, Hunan province capital, and that another Chinese army of 100,000 men was encircled 25 miles northeast of the city.

Only two Chinese armies remained to defend Changsha, a Japanese military spokesman said.

Japanese troops were reported to have advanced within 18 miles of the city of 600,000 population, and 300,000 Chinese soldiers were said to be retreating along a 180-mile front.

Americans stranded in Japan by a lack of shipping for the United States saw a glimmer of hope in a disclosure by the official Japanese spokesman, Koh Ishii, that the Tokyo government was considering dispatching a Japanese vessel to take Americans home from Japan and to take Japanese nationals home from the United States.

If finally arranged, the ship also would carry piles of mail, now held up by the suspension of service.

Declares Japanese To Stay With Axis.

TOKYO—(INS)—Activities of the United States or Great Britain designed to break Japan away from the Tripartite pact with Germany and Italy are doomed to failure, Nobudi Ito, president of the board of information, declared today. In a radio address commemorating the first anniversary of the pact, Ito declared it remains the "keynote of Japanese diplomacy."

"In view of the present delicate international situation," said Ito, "I wish especially to emphasize that no matter what changes there may be hereafter in the international situation and whatever difficulties we may encounter, there will not be any change whatsoever in the fact that the spirit of the three power pact constitutes the keynote of our diplomacy.

"Nor will it be affected in the least by the activities of third powers designed to alienate the three countries."

Predict Transfer Of Populations.

ROME—(INS)—An exchange of population in Serbia and Croatia to end "continuous disturbances" in those areas was predicted by authoritative diplomatic circles today as the Croatian Fascist regime announced a "fight without quarter" against an estimated 1,500,000 Serbian rebels in conquered Jugoslavia.

Italian and German troops moved into the demilitarized area yesterday in an effort to end widespread disorders there.

At the same time, the fate of from 40,000 to 50,000 Jews who formerly lived in Croatia remained in doubt. These Jews were said to have been removed, possibly to "a small island in the Adriatic."

Italian press reports told of unremitting fighting with "no prisoners being taken on either side" as the new Croatian government battled to stamp out the Serb uprising.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, the petroleum coordinator, said today a "factual inventory" had found a net surplus of only 5,192 rail tank cars available to haul petroleum to the Atlantic seaboard.

This finding sharply disagreed with a contention by J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads that 20,000 idle tank cars were available for operation in the oil emergency.

The senate committee which investigated the oil situation in the east reported there was no shortage, that unnecessary alarm had been created, and suggested that restrictions on gasoline sales be lifted.

CLEAR CITY OF STORM DEBRIS

Workers Remove Fallen Trees as Damage Estimates Run To Thousands.

County orchards were hard hit by the strong wind which whipped through them dashing most of the fruit to the ground. Loss estimates ran as high as 50 per cent. The crop damage was felt throughout the state. Herman Mantell, president of the Ohio Apple association, estimated the apple crop damage would run to $100,000.

City workers were unable to remove large trees on West Third street and Marion avenue until after 2 a. m. A parked car owned by Mrs. Hazel Cross, 242 Rowland avenue, was badly damaged yesterday noon when a tree blew across it at Third street and Franklin avenue.

All through the city, but especially in the southwestern side where a good deal of construction work is being done, housewives were bothered by sheets of dust and sand whirled about by the miniature hurricane.

Richland county commissioners reported that the roof of one of the county home barns had been lifted and badly damaged by the gale.

Telegraph communications with Ashland, Wooster, and Bellville were interrupted when wires were cut by falling limbs and trees. Service was not restored until after 5 p. m.

The weather bureau explained that the wind was the aftermath of Wednesday's storms in North Dakota and Minnesota and predicted that the wind velocity would return to normal today.

At Sandusky, the velocity reached 70 miles an hour and the barometer dropped within four points of the reading at the time of a devastating twister there in 1924.

3 MANSFIELD YOUTHS, SHILOH GIRL KILLED

Four Die In Grade Crossing Accident Near Willard; Dragged 150 Feet.

time employe at the Western Union telegraph office here.

Huron County Coroner J. D. Bradish said Harfman and Miss Williams suffered broken necks, while Hamlin's skull was fractured, and Faugl died of a hemorrhage after an artery in his neck was severed. All of the victims also had numerous lacerations and bruises on their bodies. The coroner said all apparently died instantly or a few moments after the impact.

Authorities identified Harfman from his driver's license, issued in Mansfield Wednesday, and other papers in his pockets. His body was taken to the Secor funeral home with that of the girl. The bodies of the three Mansfield youths later were brought to the Wappner funeral home in Mansfield.

It was understood the Williams girl had been visiting relatives in Willard, and authorities believe the Mansfield youths went there after her and were returning to Plymouth or Shelby for two other girls to go with the group on a "date."

Shiloh residents said the girl returned about two months ago from a western state where she had been with her mother. She lived with her father, M. E. Williams, a druggist, and another sister in Shiloh, it was said.

Jack Long, Mansfield R. D. 4, a friend of the three youths, identified the Mansfielders' bodies at Willard about 2 a. m. today. Assisting him with the identification were Pete Hergatt, Tony Besenti, and Steve Csordas, all of Mansfield R. D. 4. Besenti said Harfman had asked him to go with him on a "date" last night, but he refused because he had planned a trip to Columbus yesterday and was afraid he would not get back in time.

William Neibarger, engineer on the locomotive, said he started blowing the whistle nearly a mile south of the crossing to warn motorists. He told authorities he saw the car approach the crossing and applied the air brakes, but was unable to stop in time to avoid the crash. The train was traveling slowly at the crossing, authorities said.

Neibarger, former Mansfield resident, said it was the first fatal accident involving one of his trains in the 35 years he has been with the railroad. Neibarger spends his winters in Florida and work with the railroad during the summer.

Funeral arrangements for the three youths were completed today. All of the bodies were taken to the Wappner funeral home.

Mr. Harfman, who has born Aug. 31, 1915, in Akron, is survived by his parents, John Harfman of Cincinnati and Elizabeth Harfman who lives on Wooster road; two brothers, John, of Camp Ft. McPherson, Ga., and Joseph, Madison high school football player, at home; and four sisters, Matilda of Cincinnati, Mrs. Kenneth Layland and Ida and Mary Harfman, all of Mansfield.

Rev. Paul H. Saleste of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church will conduct services for him at 1 p. m., Monday at the Wappner funeral home. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Mr. Faugl was born Aug. 16, 1920, in Mansfield and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Faugl, 307 Third avenue; three brothers, Donald, Frank and Russell and three sisters, Mrs. Nickolas Schunatz, and Jean and Rosemary Faugl, all of Mansfield.

Rev. Saleste will also officiate at services for him at the Wappner home at 10 a. m. Monday. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church will conduct services for Mr. Hamlin at the Wappner funeral home at 3:30 p. m., Monday.

Surviving Mr. Hamlin, who was born Dec. 22, 1920, in Shelby, are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse W. Hamlin; a sister, Mrs. Robert Stark; and two brothers, Royce and William, all of Mansfield.

1 will send 46 men; Board 2, 36, and Board 3, 44.

Conducting physical examinations at the Mansfield armory yesterday for the second consecutive day, physicians and dentists qualified 27 more youths and now have almost enough to meet the October quotas, clerks said.

A total of 44 registrants were examined yesterday. Board 1 had 13 of 20 men approved, while Board 2 reported five ready for induction out of nine examined, and Board 3 had nine of 15 approved by physicians with a possible tenth one who may receive the doctors' approval later.

Already selected by the boards, 22 Richland countians will leave Monday morning for Fort Hayes to receive their assignments to camps. They are the only ones to be inducted this month from the county.

Two Girls Complete 3100-Mile Journey, Have Experiences of 'Pioneer Days.'

Ocean swim.

Enroute they encountered a few of the hardships met by pioneers of '49, although they followed paved highways.

Once their horses ran away. Another time Mrs. Binau's dapple grey mare, Silver Queen, fell and Mrs. Binau broke her wrist. Crossing the Mojave desert, they miscalculated their time and were without food 40 hours. They forded Oklahoma flood waters.

They didn't have one cross word although they were together constantly 167 days.

Sometimes they slept in hotels; sometimes they camped out. They spent eight nights under the desert stars.

Near Victorville, Calif., their horses, Silver Queen and Painted Chief, broke away. The girls hunted all night in vain. In the morning, they hired an airplane and the pilot found the horses.

They had three birthday celebrations enroute and they'll have another Saturday, when Mrs. Binau will be 22. Miss Shumaker reached that age enroute and each of the horses became 5 years old since April 12.

The girls believe their ride was the longest ever made by any women. They'd like to canter back home, but they're going by automobile, starting Monday.

PRIZE NOVEL IN NEW BOOKS AT CITY LIBRARY

'Marriage, Private Affair,' Tells Interesting Story of Modern Couple.

A pleasant relief from current headlines dealing with the forces of war is furnished by two new books at the Mansfield Public Library.

Judith Kelly's "Marriage Is a Private Affair," the tenth winner of the Harper Prize Novel contest, tells the story of two people who were married under the happiest possible circumstances. They had money to live comfortably and graciously, but they also had a plan which made their union happier than some of their contemporaries. The story covering four years of modern marriage is told with candor and perception.

Carl Glick in "Shake Hands With the Dragon," portrays the real Chinatown as seen through the eyes of a young American who sets out to direct athletics in a Chinatown boy's club. His experiences are amusing and if you would like to know how to eat seaweed and like it, this is definitely your dish.

Several new books have been added to the library's growing collection of material on Latin America. "The Other America," by Lawrence Griswold is more than a statistical survey—it is an historical, social, industrial, economic and political exposition of every separate country in South America. Travel conditions are considered as well as the problems of health, exploration and language.

Other books on South America are: VENEZUELA'S PLACE IN THE SUN by Roosevelt; CHILE: LAND OF PROGRESS by Hanson; GOOD NEIGHBORS by Herring.

OTHER NON-FICTION: KEEL-BOATAGE ON WESTERN WATERS by Baldwin; WALT WHITMAN: BUILDER FOR AMERICA by Deutsch; UNEMPLOYED WORKER by Bakke; CITIZENS WITHOUT WORK by Bakke; THE NAVY IN REVIEW by Erickson; SCIENTIFIC PHOTOGRAPHER by Lawrence; PRACTICAL TREE SURGERY by Blair; PREFACE TO CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY by Mackey.

ANN CARMENY by Hoffman Birney is the story of a young girl who comes into the surcharged atmosphere of the great basin of the Salt Lake in the 1860's with $15,000 in gold. Only the intervention of Jesse Minor, a gambler and a man of many moods and talents, saves her from some of the city's most notable sinners. Panic-stricken Ann marries him; and they set out, half in hatred, half in love, to found a dynasty not built on gold, but on the goodness and infinite wealth of the western soil.

SHELTER by Jane Nicholson is a story that brings home the day-to-day emotional impact of living in a bombed city. It tells of life and work and love going on amid fire and destruction, among scenes that thousands of Americans know and cherish. And it tells of two girls and a man—one his wife, one his mistress—and of how their lives were fused in a searing hour of history.

OTHER FICTION: DYNASTY OF DOCTORS by Traus; ROLLICKING ROGUE by McCulley; CHUCKLING FINGERS by Seeley.

Thomas Reveille, who because of official position must remain annoymous, shows in THE SPOIL OF EUROPE how the Nazis plan and carry out the political and economic domination of the countries they attack with a ruthless efficiency unsurpassed even by their military machine. It is more comprehensive than Kernan's "France on Berlin Time," but is not such easy reading.

Stephen Longstreet's LAST MAN AROUND THE WORLD is an amusing, sophisticated record of the keen young novelist's adventures on the last deluxe liner that made the trip. Shortly after his return, the ship on which he had traveled was sunk by a Nazi submarine.

The staple food of most of Afghanistan's population is fruit.

CHANGES PLEA, FINE SUSPENDED

Joe Shaffer, 59 North Franklin avenue, who paid fines totaling $600 on Sept. 11 for violations of the state liquor laws, changed a not guilty plea to guilty yesterday in Municipal court upon arraignment on a charge of resisting an officer.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fined Shaffer $10 and costs but suspended the fine pending Shaffer's good behavior. Shaffer was one of nine persons arrested in a series of raids by state liquor agents and Mansfield police on August 9.

Seven of the other eight persons arrested in the same raids paid fines. One was released because of insufficient evidence.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1941

In this war, events move faster than policies, and theorists are usually behind the news.

Some oldtimers can recall when people were satisfied if the government gave them nothing more than free garden seeds.

Putting first things first, Detroit has cleaned up its council and is now entering upon a rat extermination campaign.

Time To Limit War Profits

THERE have been reports lately of manufacturers making immense profits from war orders, reaching even 50 to 100 per cent, or more. Perhaps this is true in some cases. If so, it can hardly continue long. Neither the public nor the government can tolerate such profiteering. Action is under way now in congress to limit war profits.

The whole idea that war is a grand opportunity for abnormal profits, tolerated unduly by the last generation, is changing now. "Up to this time," says a financial writer, "the hope was entertained that national defense would be a picnic, providing more jobs at higher wages, higher prices for producers of raw materials and higher profits for capital and management. In a word, the defense program was to be the answer to the prayers of almost a decade for a way out of the depression. Of all such thinking, little remains in the minds of thoughtful men and women."

How could there be prosperity and big profits, he asks, when we now have to devote 15 per cent of our energy to producing the instruments of destruction, and we shall soon have to double that figure? There can be real prosperity only when abundant goods are produced for useful purposes.

Newspapers Will Keep On Trying

DRAWING from his broad experience as a writer, educator and psychologist, Walter B. Pitkin hit the nail on the head when he told a Mansfield civic club audience yesterday that a great need in America is for "a better informed public."

Having now the best informed public, and the greatest freedom of speech, thought and action to be found anywhere in the world, there is still great need for further progress along this line—as is constantly evidenced by many men in high places as well as the millions of us from whom less is expected in the way of ability to understand.

After his graduation from the University of Michigan in 1900 Professor Pitkin was privileged to study in Paris, Berlin and Munich, before taking a theological course in Hartford, Conn., since which he has enjoyed an enviable career as a member of Columbia faculty, lecturer, writer for newspapers and magazines and author of a number of books, including the widely read "Life Begins at Forty."

It must therefore be assumed that when Professor Pitkin adversely criticises newspapers and schools for failure to fully and accurately inform the public about "what is going on" he does it in a spirit of friendliness, with full realization of the human frailties which prevent perfection in these fields, as well as in others.

When he says, in referring to newspapers, that "None of them print all their editors and reporters know," that conclusion is also quite understandable, but when he charges that information on matters of public interest are withheld from newspapers in the United States because of "pressure from government, advertisers and miscellaneous agencies" he departs from the area of agreement.

Whatever Professor Pitkin's personal experience may have been during his association with newspapers, and however much lack of accord there may be in the editorial views of American newspapers, they are still the freest in the world, the least influenced by "pressure," and the most earnest in their efforts to print the news without bias and with a desire to give their readers the fullest possible information on all subjects of public interest.

Whatever practicable method Professor Pitkin may develop to bring about a more fully informed public, he may rest assured will have the sincere co-operation of American newspapers—as long as they retain their present freedom.

An Appreciated Letter Carrier

APPRECIATION is probably felt much more frequently than it is expressed. Anyhow, it was a nice thing for those folks on "Bud" Traxler's mail route in the northwest part of town to let him know of their appreciation of his 17 years of faithful service in that district.

Somehow or other, after a letter carrier has been on one route a long time, he comes to be looked upon somewhat as a close friend of the family rather than merely as a public employe. Without prying into personal affairs, he gradually gets a quite good estimate of all the families on his route and shares in their pleasures and griefs.

He knows when one of the children goes to college—or to training camp—and is always glad when an awaited letter arrives. He even becomes acquainted with the reading habits of families by the kind of magazines they take.

Even if your letter carrier isn't being transferred to another route, it wouldn't hurt, occasionally, to let him know that you appreciate the efficient and friendly service he gives day after day, in unpleasant weather as well as when the sun is shining.

Want More Pay for Less Work

THERE may be a curious feeling of unreality in reading a news item like this: "The Ohio State Council of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes have adopted a three-point program aimed at increasing their salaries and securing a five-day, 40-hour work week."

Salary increases may be justified in many cases, although that is not clearly demonstrated. But a double-headed demand for more pay and less work, in times like these, seems curiously unrealistic. There seems to be little realization here of the present world situation.

An astronomer estimates that letters 60 miles square would be needed to signal Mars—but some other things seem more important at the moment.

A Philadelphia restaurant is advertising for "cook, who understands oysters"—and what a lobster will say next should also be interesting.

An elephant in the Cincinnati zoo is more than 100 years old—and it must be terrible to live that long without being able to forget.

Plain Packages

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

CONSIDERABLE pouting being done these days over all the new restrictions. Silk stockings . . . aluminum pots . . . gasoline . . . rubber hose . . . carpentering tools . . . building materials. Seems as if we're short on everything. As a result, most of us are coddling a pet peeve against the government. Well, maybe there has been mismanagement. And I'm all for speaking up when there's any real mess or waste. But when you compare the simplest citizen's requirements today with what his Mom and Dad had to get along with back in the 90's, you begin to wonder.

Could it possibly be that we Americans are just a teeny-weeny itty-bitty rotten-spoiled? Have we forgotten or never learned that fact which our grand-folk knew so well—that the best things often come in the plainest packages?

Take the common food which our adopted citizens brought with them from the Old Countries—miracles of nourishment, savoury scent and flavor, yet unbelievably cheap and simple. Polenta, f'rinstance. Polenta is any Italian's winter stand-by . . . warming as its own gold and russet mounds. So, when the moon rises red behind the withered corn stalks . . . and the owl's hoot booms down the gully like a jungle drum . . . and the smell of "mountain misery" scents the air with its tarry spice, I get out the makings.

Not much of a job to that—for nothing could be plainer. A steaming potful of coarsely ground yellow corn meal, boiled slowly for hours, into a mush as thick as dumpling dough. A skillet of Italian gravy, for which you'll need some chunks of meat—veal, rabbit, chicken, or beef—browned with onions, in olive oil, covered with tomato paste or sauce, flavored with garlic, celery, bay leaves, sprigs of rosemary and parsley . . . likewise simmered until the meat is in rags.

Toward the end, remove the tasteless meat and herbs. Some keep the meat, if not cooked too long. Now for dried mushrooms which have been washed, soaked in water for an hour, then chopped finely and added, with the water, to the thick sauce.

Nearly ready now! Fire burning—listen to those pine cones! Coffee bubbling? Folks settin' 'round the red-checked table cloth? Then grab your biggest platter—the old, cracked one that stands the oven heat. Dish up your corn meal in thick spoonfuls and cover with the gravy and a liberal top sprinkling of tangy grated cheese—hope you can get the real Parmesan. Shove into the oven until the cheese has melted a bit, then swoop to the table. And get ready for medals!

Nothing elaborate or costly about that. A few cents covers it all—you can even raise the herbs in your own window box. Yet the White House never served grander chuck! And you needn't stop with polenta. Look back at the happiest hours you've known—lazy talks with lots of stops before the fire, sprawled along a trout stream or digging in the garden. Aimless wanderings with a book, a pup and a pipe . . . or a pot of paint, freshening the kitchen chairs. Nothing costly or fussy about these either. Plain packages, all of them, like polenta . . . packages made glorious with fun and friendliness—and faith.

YET AMERICA WAS BUILT ON JUST SUCH "PLAIN PACKAGES" . . . ITS ROOTS SPREAD FAR AND DEEP IN SUCH SIMPLICITY. AND I'M THINKING WE'LL ALL BE THE BETTER FOR A TASTE OF IT AGAIN.

(P. S. Want regular cook-book directions for polenta and other gorgeous grub? Then get that rare, jowl-lickin' little gem of a book—"HERBS FOR THE KITCHEN" by Irma Goodrich Mazza. Little, Brown & Co., Publishers. And here's betting that Dad will beat you to the reading of it.)

Readers Forum

My Night (Much Disturbed).

Editor News-Journal:

For millions of years—more or less—as our evolutionist friends love to phrase it,—I have been mulling over in my mind a matter of public interest that I believe demands attention and action.

Barking dogs are bad and auto horn leaners are worse but for real, honest to goodness, soul-racking, nerve-bouncing, ear-blasting, sleep spoiling, raucous racket, commend me to the long-drawn-out, straight from below shrieking of Pennsy, Erie or B. & O. whistles around 2 or 3 or 4 a. m.

No wonder men are such homely critters. Women don't need much beauty sleep. They can buy it at the drug store, but for man to have his beauty nap busted night after night, turns the school-boy complexion a lemon-yellow and leaves temper tottering on her throne.

Of course any railroad that can afford 16 vice-presidents and a tired office boy has a moral right to squander precious chunks of coal in wasted steam if it wants to, defense or no defense.

But if the steam burns up the public that is another matter. And if a little judiciously applied moral suasion, with a hint of legal language to follow, could tone down the Saturday horn squawking nuisance in Mansfield to something less than a stage whisper, maybe some properly placed expression of outraged public opinion—and we DO mean outraged—would convince those responsible for the continuance of needless, senseless railroad noise, that it was really time to do something about it.

Sleepily,
F. E. POWELL

Timely Editorial

Just Killing Anybody.

The Nazis have dropped one of their masks of pretense. Hitler's henchmen now are announcing that hostages from all classes of the French population will be shot in punishment for revolts against the Nazi control. Formerly the German government has always explained that the hostages were of "Communist-Jewish" origin.

It is easy to see that the defiance to Hitler's new order is growing so fast that it can no longer be made to appear as a Communist or racial antagonism. The Nazis finally are admitting that they are resorting to the ancient and savage plan of executions to spread enough terror to maintain their uncertain rule of force—Toledo Blade.

Stamina Shown By Citizen Army Under Strain of Night Fighting

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WITH THE THIRD ARMY IN LOUISIANA—One thing to keep in mind in reading about the big war games:

They are not for developing super strategy. That is the function of the general staff. Their purpose is to teach the 450,000 officers and men of the Second (Red) and Third (Blue) armies how to operate under realistic combat conditions as disciplined, coordinated teams. The games are like football's "grid practice."

For months, in their own training centers, the citizen soldiers learned how to use the arms of their units—how to operate tanks and armored scout cars, how to fire artillery and automatic arms, how to hike, deploy, pitch camp, build bridges, set up communication lines, and do the jobs of an efficient blitz army.

Without this training there could be no modern army. But the next step, to learn how to operate as a team, is equally essential.

Field training cuts needless heavy losses in battle. The AEF was a heroic army, but as any veteran will tell you, many men were lost because it lacked the field training which the citizen soldiers of '41 are now getting. In this they are blessed with good fortune. In our past history citizen armies had to learn the lessons of combat the hard way—under actual fire and at heavy sacrifice.

* * *

Mechanization vs. Men.

TACTICALLY, the basic problem of war games is a test between fast-moving armored power in one army and mass force in the other.

The Second Army, 130,000 strong, is made up of tank and motorized artillery, cavalry and infantry divisions. It is highly mobile, has fast and powerful striking force. It is essentially an army of attack.

The Third Army, of 330,000 men, is three times as strong and is made up chiefly of infantry, cavalry, anti-tank and aircraft divisions. It too operates extensively on wheels but basically it is a defensive army. For the purpose of these games, both armies have attached to them an equal number of aircraft. Also, the participating parachute battalions are operated by General Headquarters and alternate between the two armies to give both practice in using and opposing these surprise fighters who drop down from the sky.

The terrain in this rugged lowland has been a tremendous handicap to the Second Army. With a water table only two feet below surface level, the tanks and armored cars have been compelled to keep largely to the hard-surfaced roads, which are few and far between.

So to minimize losses from air bombing, the mechanized Second Army has had to move largely at night to take up positions to fight the next day. This has meant a terrific strain on men and equipment—which they met with amazing resilience and stamina. These boys and their machines are tough and sturdy, and in a wide open country they would have run the Blues ragged.

* * *

Raids Behind Lines.

THE THIRD ARMY has taken full advantage of the breaks given it by the terrain. Its underlying strategy has been to keep out of the way of the mechanized forces and then to swarm over them from the flanks and the rear.

The Third Army's combat patrols have displayed signal aggressiveness and resourcefulness. They have raided far behind Red lines, disrupting communications and supplies and forcing Red GHQ to evacuate hastily in order to avoid capture. Shifting an army headquarters at night, after a hard day's fighting, is no easy job.

It also has been a great anguish to the "war" correspondents covering the Second Army, who have piled into camp at dusk dirty and tired and looking forward to showers, cool drinks and comfortable beds, only to have to hurriedly pack bags and spend the night bouncing over dust-drenched roads in blacked-out jeeps.

Blitz warfare is no fun for man, beast, machines or "war" correspondents.

Note: Two years ago this month the entire U. S. army was smaller than the Second Army, which is only one component of the citizen army. In September, 1939, the U. S. Army numbered 111,000 men.

* * *

Chow and Chiggers.

YOUR friend and relatives in Louisiana have had plenty to eat during these field maneuvers.

From new mobile kitchens, with food cooking while en route, the boys have had at least one hot meal a day. The food isn't fancy, but it is substantial and plentiful.

The system of distributing supplies, operating from blacked-out rail heads at night, has been one of the big successes of the war games.

In addition to the unit messes, each man also has an emergency ("C") ration. This is far different from the bully beef and hardtack gnawed by men of the AEF. The "C" ration consists of two tin cans: one containing seven ounces of very tasty stew of meat and vegetables; the other powdered coffee, sugar, whole wheat, vitamized biscuits and a square of chocolate. The chocolate, however, induces thirst and is being replaced with hard candy.

Usual procedure in eating the "C" ration is for the men to gobble first the candy and then the stew.

Chief needs of the men in the field are bathing, laundry, and a good chigger cure. A new oil to repel chiggers is being experimented with. If war games are held here next year, the men may do less scratching.

The army also is developing a mobile-shower bath, which should be available in quantity next summer. Pending that, Lieut. General Ben Lear, commander of the Second Army, proposed setting up bathing centers in nearby ball parks, but the idea was vetoed by the war department. Also rejected was a Lear proposal to furnish the men free laundry. Enlisted men now pay $1.25 a month for washing.

Note: Good drinking water is supplied the men in the field by mobile machines, purifying 5,000 gallons an hour.

Fit and Hard.

ONE THING these war games have proved is that the citizen soldiers are in superb physical condition.

These boys are a magnificent looking crowd: fit, hard, keen-eyed, enthusiastic and amazingly well informed. Nobody is kidding them about anything. They are well-behaved, courteous, but frank and straightforward.

Conclusive evidence of the fitness and discipline of this man's army is the fact that AWOLs and sick reports during maneuvers have been practically non-existent.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Behind the imposing if long-winded title of Co-chairman of the Amusement Division of the New York Defense Recreation Committee is Broadway's John Golden, producer of more hit dramas and comedies than you have any right to ask him to recollect.

Mr. Golden's busines is to help keep the boys happy, the boys being service men. In a little more than two months, more than 30,000 free admissions to Broadway's theaters have been given to soldiers, sailors and marines on leave in Manhattan, and more than these will be forthcoming during the winter months, if a little matter of "tax" is excluded by the U. S. Gov't.

If you go sticking a 10 per cent amusement tax on free ducats to the soldiers you will create a need for a lot of extra bookkeeping. Theater managers have enough to worry about as it is. That is why they have their eye on the new tax bill, which must retain the exemption on tickets given free to service men if the service men are to have a fling on Broadway this season.

It is hoped by Mr. Golden's committee that a minimum of 8,000 tickets a week will be available soon, contributed by all theaters in the city. This does not include movie passes of which there should be thousands.

Not only is the committee committed to finding tickets for the boys—its chores include providing information as to the arrival and departure of trains, finding rooms and sleeping quarters for them and otherwise lifting the question mark from their bewildered brows when they come among us.

AMONG drama critics on New York daily newspapers there is only one woman—Wilella Waldorf of the Post....Ray Kinney's Victor recording of "Good Night, Aloha" is beautiful....Vaughn Monroe's band will be in the new supper room at the Commodore when it opens Oct. 2.....Monroe and Charlie Spivak were touted as the two bands of the year that everyone should watch....Tommy Tucker's Okeh recording of "I Love You" is another heart-thriller....Just think, if it were not for recordings, Caruso's voice would be lost forever....Now, it's safe for all times....

A Farmer's Diary

Locking Teacher Out

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE ancient log schoolhouse is only a crumbling relic now, but my friend, the old farmer, paused as we went by and said, "In the fall of '71, I was there, when they locked the teacher out."

"Tell me," I suggested.

"Well, in those days, they had two terms of school each year, a winter term of four months and a summer term of three months. The pupils in wintertime ranged in age from 5 years to 22, but in summer the older boys helped on the farms, so they usually hired a lady to teach in summer and a man in winter. One winter my father taught—it was the year I started.

"The custom of 'treating' at Christmas hadn't started yet, at least not in our district. Some of the big boys got the idea of inducing my dad to treat by means of their own. So one day, when he went to a neighbor's on an errand at noon recess, a big fellow with a strong, sharp jackknife whittled out a peg to poke in above the latch and keep the door from opening. Then the older boys herded the rest of us inside.

"It was an old thumb latch, see, with an iron bar 10 or 12 inches long fastened to the door by a screw at the back. The forward end moved up and down in a guide, and dropped into a notch in an iron plate on the door jamb. From inside, you lifted on a lever to raise the bar out of the notch, and pulled the door open. From outside, to open the door, you pressed the lever down, and pushed.

"Well, my father came back to re-open school and couldn't get in. The boys had been waiting for this, and they called through the door that they'd open up if he'd promise a Christmas treat.

"Now, there was no way of locking this schoolhouse by use of the thumb latch, so the directors had screwed a latch on the inside of the door that could be locked from outside with a key. My father carried the key to this extra lock.

"When the boys delivered their ultimatum, he made no reply—just reached for his big key, locked the door from outside, and went home. Defeat and consternation reigned in that schoolroom then! 'When d'you think he'll come back?' the boys asked me.

"'Not 'till school time tomorrow,' I said, and began to cry. I was right, too. He didn't."

"But did you actually have to stay there all night?"

"No—it happened the boy with the big knife could turn the screws and take the lock off. Those big boys were the joke of the neighborhood for the rest of the winter. I don't remember whether there was a treat that Christmas or not. Anyhow, no teacher was locked out in that district from that day to this—and it's been 70 years."

REACH $60,000 IN DRIVE FOR NEW ADDITION

Shelby Workers Turn In Many Pledges Toward Hospital Improvement.

SHELBY—More than $60,000 today had been reported pledged in the drive for $75,000 for the Shelby Memorial hospital addition as the active drive came to an end Thursday.

The total amount of the pledges received for the fund during the two-day drive, Wednesday and Thursday, is not expected to be known for several days as the workers' report will not be made to the drive headquarters until all of the cards given out for pledges have been turned back in.

The drive netted $30,000 the first day and about the same amount yesterday, drive officials disclosed. It is expected that the goal of $75,000 will be reached when the workers' reports are tabulated early next week.

Some 200 workers took part in the drive this week.

WORKMAN HURT

Bucyrus Employe Injured In Accident During Storm.

BUCYRUS—Struck by a heavy roll of roofing when the wind blew it from the top of one of the buildings under construction at the new General Electric plant Thursday morning, Chris Palossa, Cleveland, employe at the plant, suffered an injured right arm. An x-ray taken at City hospital disclosed no fracture but the arm was badly bruised.

Further check of damage caused by the high wind revealed considerable damage at the Bucyrus Castings company where operations were ceased after the wind blew a large portion of the roof from the foundry building.

Workmen were continuing today to clear Bucyrus streets of debris and crews of Ohio Power linemen and Bucyrus Telephone company linemen worked until late Thursday night repairing breaks in service lines.

Windstorm insurance companies would venture no estimate of loss during the storm.

Mr. Light's parents returned Wednesday from the east after attending the wedding, solemnized in First Presbyterian church.

After a wedding trip through New Hampshire and Maine the couple will return to make their home in Boston where Mr. Light is a chemist at the Godfrey L. Cabbott company.

Both Mr. Light and his bride attended Wittenberg college at Springfield. Mrs. Light spent a year abroad continuing her studies at Rotterdam.

Other relatives of Mr. Light who attended the ceremony were his sisters, Mrs. J. B. Humphrey of Akron, and Miss Clara Jane Light of Los Angeles.

The evening's program was in charge of Mrs. Mary Wagner. Devotional leader was Rev. R. R. Elliker, pastor of First Reformed church. A group of songs were sung by Franklin Craun who was accompanied by Howard Self. Group singing was also enjoyed.

M. A. Povenmire, new superintendent of the Galion schools, Miss Swinehart, new teacher at the building, Vernon Buiden, the new janitor, and parents new in the district, were introduced. The school principal, B. W. Myers, announced a present enrollment of 111 at the building.

TRAINEES SHOW 10-POUND GAIN

Troops' Rations Placed In Five Categories By Expert.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Army recruits gain on an average of 10 pounds during their first three or four weeks of training, reports Mary I. Barbour, food consultant for the quartermaster corps.

In normal times, with the mess sergeant buying his supplies from local merchants and the post commissary and making his own menus, a soldier eats for approximately 44 cents a day—and well, too.

"The small percentage of men who resent selective service, who are homesick, who have not been able to make the adjustment from civilian to military are the ones who do not put on weight," Miss Barbour said.

Army rations are classified into five broad categories to cover every emergency — the garrison ration for normal times, and rations, A, B, C, and D.

The main difference between the garrison and A ration is that in the latter, devised for war or an emergency, the food is purchased by quartermasters of the posts instead of each individual mess sergeant and supplied to all camps in their area.

Miss Barbour refers to Ration B as the reserve ration, made up entirely of non-perishable foods. Every post has a sufficient quantity to feed the men in case perishable supplies should be shut off.

Troops on the march get Ration C, which consists of six cans for one day of food. Three contain meat dinners, one for each meal —meat and vegetable stew for breakfast, meat and beans for dinner, meat and vegetable hash for supper. Each of the other three cans contains five biscuits, soluble coffee, sugar, and a chocolate wafer.

Ration D is a four-ounce chocolate bar soldiers can carry in their pockets for emergency use. It consists of chocolate, sugar, dried milk, oat flour and thiamin, and represents 600 calories.

Miss Barbour disclosed that rations for parachute and ski troops are being developed.

The army's rapid increase in size has created a shortage of trained bakers and cooks, she reports, and to fill the need for them sub-schools have been established for a two-months course after a recruit's 90 days of basic training is terminated.

O. S. R. Parolee Pleads Not Guilty to Auto Theft.

Ray Poling, 21, a parolee released from Ohio State Reformatory less than two weeks ago, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned on auto theft charge yesterday in Municipal court and was bound over to the Richland county grand jury on $1,500 bail.

Poling, acording to Sheriff Frank Robinson, took a truck owned by Nell Robinson, Poling's employer and left the city. Both the truck and Poling were picked up in Piqua and returned here.

The parolee was admitted to the reformatory in October 1939, to serve a one-to-20 year sentence for auto theft.

CHAPTER XI

Martin Deale was reciting poetry and doing a good job of it. He liked poetry. He even wrote it—of a sort—when he didn't feel in the mood to paint and didn't have any other distractions.

Tonight he had what is sometimes termed a small but appreciative audience. Of the several people before him all save Thad Monroe listened with genuine interest. Thad irreverently slumped back in one of Miss Millie's easiest chairs and snored.

"You're discourteous, Thad Monroe!" Baby Doll Mayfield informed him at the end of one poem.

"Somebody must shovel the dirt of life," quoth he, melodramatically, "and I am but an humble slave. No, kids, poetry sifts right through me."

"Oh come, Thad," Martin sprang to his own defense. "What about Elizabeth Browning?"

"I'm for her, judging from her name. Got any dimples?"

"Stupid, she's a poetess! Or was. One of the greatest. Love sonnets. Listen—"

"Never mind, never mind! Mrs. Mayfield, with your permission, I shall stoop so materialistic as to raid the ice box—ah me."

The group all laughed. "You know you're always welcome, Thad. There's fruit. I'll come help you. Where's Lillian?"

Nobody knew. It was past 11 and Mrs. Mayfield had just come onto the porch — her time honored hint for departure. But with Lillian still absent—

* * *

Mrs. Mayfield didn't like that. Didn't like not knowing where her daughters were every minute. She and Thad Monroe sat on opposite sides of the little breakfast table to munch open-faced sandwiches and refrigerator knick knacks. The others were singing again, on the east porch three rooms away.

"Thad, you know I like the easy way you make yourself at home here," Mrs. Mayfield said. "You don't stand on ceremony and you never offend, either. A body would think you southern born!"

Thad smiled. "Now that's a real compliment, Miss Millie!"

"I'm still grateful to you for helping me make the money. You know I needed it. Mr. Mayfield was—was—"

"I understand. And you're sure welcome." It was a delicate subject, Thad knew, and he didn't want to get too deep into it. Nevertheless his hostess had created a mood here and something responsive swelled up in him. The kitchen was private now; the little breakfast nook cozy and intimate. Mrs. Mayfield in extra friendly temper. Thad was prompted to talk.

"Mrs. Mayfield," he said, slowly, looking at the food, "there's something I've been wanting to, uh, mention to you, when I could. Now you say you like me around. That's great! I think a lot of you, also. But Mrs. Mayfield, I—well, the fact is I've been doing right well.

"I'm sure you have. Thad I'm happy for you."

"Thank you, ma'am." He swallowed, still avoiding her eyes "You have never met any of my people. They're all out west California. It's an easy-go-lucky country and ours is an easy-go-lucky clan, I suppose. But there never has been any Monroe in jail, to my knowledge. I—well I often brag that there was a President Monroe. I doubt if we are descended from him, but my grandfather was right well off."

"Oh surely so, Thad." What was the boy getting at, she wondered.

"Yes And—and—well, I'll have to speak out plain' I have been wondering if maybe you could manage to accept me as a son? That is, as a son-in-law?"

"Oh!" Millicent Mayfield murmured it. "Oh, I see!"

Poor Thad squirmed. And seeing him, who was always so completely poised, thus ill at ease was itself something of a phenomenon to his hostess now. She smothered a quick little smile.

"Of course, Thad, you—surprise me! I hardly know what to say! Have you—? I mean, you and Lillian—"

"I'm six years older than Lillian, Mrs. Mayfield. That may be too much. And I'm a little too fat. And I'm not much of a glamor guy, know what I mean? But confound it, I love Lillian and I can't help it! I've been loving her since I first turned up on your porch. Excuse me, ma'am, but I just had to talk about it tonight!"

* * *

Until past midnight, then, Thad and his hostess had what he in later months was to call his one and only heart-to-heart hour. Moreover, it did both of them good. It always does good to open the windows of a soul and let a friend inspect it. Millicent Mayfield told him here this evening to set him at ease. But it was advice she herself almost never took.

" . . . and so if you and Lillian arrange it, I couldn't possibly say no, Thad," she was saying, toward the end. "I feel that you have honored me by asking me first. It—it's what Mr. Mayfield would have appreciated. It's the gentlemanly thing to have done. And what about Lillian's feelings? I regret to say that my big girl has rather grown away from me. I suppose it's natural. She likes you I know, but—"

"I haven't asked her, haven't proposed," Thad admitted. "Not really, I mean. I joke too much, matter of fact. I intend to quit that and let her know I'm serious! You say she likes me? I mean, sort of seriously, maybe?"

"I couldn't answer that. And I'm afraid I can't suggest how to—"

* * *

They were interrupted at last by the others streaming in upon them with loud hanterings and hullabaloo such as only young couples can make. Baby Doll had a date and a girl friend with a date present tonight, and one of Lillian's old friends, Sally Rayford, was spending the night. The house had plenty of extra beds, following the wild surge of renting rooms and beds that made up the first 10 days of the oil boom. Mrs. Mayfield had taken in several hundred dollars during that hectic period but she had only one real roomer now and he was out of town.

"If you must stay back here and make love to mother, Thad Monroe, I intend to chaperone you," Baby Doll was chattering. "Is there anything left to eat?"

"Lots of bread, dear, and open a can of sandwich spread. Make yourselves at home, of course."

It was almost a quarter of one before Martin Deale ventured to ask the question that had been un-asked in all their minds.

"Where is Lillian, I wonder? Did she just disappear?"

Mrs. Mayfield moved her lips in and out expressively, sure sign of inner concern.

"She didn't say. She'll be home directly, I'm sure. It isn't nice of her just to leave guests stranded in this manner, oh dear!"

The others went on with their eating and talking. Martin looked definitely severe, even frowning. And for once Thad Monroe, the eternal spice of this young set, was glum.

In truth there was no precedent for this situation. Nobody could ever remember going home when the main hostess wasn't in or accounted for. Generally speaking, impromptu parties in the big Mayfield house broke up by midnight at the latest.

M. J. Parker, the quietest member of the gang, tried valiantly to cover the awkward wait by his conversation.

"They say," he began, "that the population of the town is sure to reach 12,000 or more. It never before was more than 2,500, Mrs. Mayfield. And derricks are going up right downtown!"

"It's disgraceful!" Martin put in emphatically.

"Most distressing," Mrs. Mayfield agreed, "but people do have to make money some way. The smell of oil is so — so awful. There's mud and pools of water, and more often than not the roughnecks are horrible men. Mrs. Haltom was saying that burglars entered a home on Lowery street—imagine! She has taken to locking her doors at night."

"It's a good idea for you to do likewise, if I may advise you, ma'am," Martin said. Thad nodded agreement.

"Jason sleeps in the little rear house," she countered.

"Jason is old. Still keeps a horse and buggy."

"But very loyal. And unafraid. I trust him. Mr. Mayfield knew he was a worthy negro and he has proven so."

"There's a car," Sally Rayford said, peering out the kitchen window.

Instantly the group was silent. The sudden hush was almost tangible, for no reason at all. When they knew that the car was stopping out front, and when Sally reported Lillian running up the walk alone, the air of expectancy deepened. The younger folk here quietly ate their sandwiches, but they were as concerned as the others while they heard Lillian come in the door and approach the kitchen.

"Lillian, wasn't that Dallas Tower's ca — ?" Her mother greeted her with a question, but paused abruptly in phrasing it.

Stevenson Classic.

Spencer Tracy, two-time Academy Award winner, brings another thrilling portrayal to the screen in Robert Louis Stevenson's classic, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," opening Saturday at the Ohio. Stevenson's fascinating story of a young scientist, Dr. Jekyll, who sets out to prove that all men hold within themselves both good and evil and then destroys himself by acting as his own guinea pig gives Tracy an opportunity for two great characterizations. As Jekyll, Tracy portrays a kindly understanding human being. As Hyde he is the enmodiment of all that is evil. A stellar cast headed by Ingrid Bergman, Lana Turner and Donald Crisp, supports the star.

Sarong Spectacle.

Crackling with comedy, thrills and melodrama, "Aloma of the South Seas," the technicolor spectacle co-starring Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall, opens Saturday at the Madison. Telling the romantic story of life on a native isle where two men battle for the love of an island beauty against a background of superstition the picture presents among its thrilling episodes a duplication of the historic disaster of Krakatoa, a volcanic eruption that ravaged a tropical isle in 1883. Lynne Overman, Philip Reed and Katherine deMille are in the supporting cast. "We Go Fast," a comedy with Lynn Bari and Alan Curtis is the second attraction.

Gay Comedy.

The gay story of a girl who waited for her West Point hero to graduate without knowing that it was a young interne to whom her heart belonged is told in "West Point Widow," playing at the Ritz. Featuring Anne Shirley in the title role the picture casts Richard Carlson in the role of the interne and Richard Denning in the part of the West Pointer. Janet Beecher and Frances Giffort are in the cast. Don "Red" Berry is featured in "The Kansas Cyclone," the companion picture.

Western Thriller.

"Tumbledown Ranch in Arizona," the action-drama showing at the Park, recounts the adventures of the Rangebusters when they get embroiled in a political and real-estate mess sandwiched between a murder and a labor dispute. Revolving around a land and railroad boom in the old west the picture features Ray Corrigan, John King and Max Terhune with Sheila Darcy as the feminine attraction. One of the most amazing electrical laboratories ever shown on the screen makes its appearance in "Man Made Monster," the co-attraction. Lon Chaney, jr., Lionel Atwell, Anna Nagel and Frank Albertson are featured.

* * *

Dramatic Feature.

"Men of the Timberland," featuring Richard Arlen and Andy Devine is showing at the Majestic. Co-featured on the same bill is "Gallant Sons," with Jackie Cooper and Bonita Granville.

Amundsen studied medicine but gave up that career to become a seaman, and one of his voyages was the founding of the Northwest Passage.

TORTURED BY BACKACHE TILL MANSFIELD LADY FOUND VENDOL

Muscular pains due to constipation made her sore and stiff, every move was an effort. Tells of amazing action, and advises every sufferer to try Vendol, too.

MRS. JAMES BENNETT, JR.
Mansfield Resident

Mrs. James Bennett, Jr., of 179½ N. Main street, says, "There are many days when I am constipated that I'm burdened with a no-good feeling and awful symptoms like the muscles of my legs aching from my knees down to my ankles, my back feels like it will break, and the muscular aches get so bad in my arms I can hardly raise them to brush my hair, and many a night these pains keep me awake for hours and I have to rub my legs so I can get back to sleep, all due to being constipated.

"I began taking Vendol, and it actually astonished me. It gives the grandest, most comforting, temporary relief from constipation of anything I have tried, and when I get this relief I never suffer any of the symptoms of muscular aches, pains, soreness, or distress, due to constipation, and I feel like a different person.

"I am no longer alarmed about mysolf, because I know that all I have to do is take Vendol and all will be well."

When you suffer from the same cause, take Vendol, a medicine with 17 years' reputation for helping men and women who praise it by the thousands, and say it is the best compound they ever tried. Vendol is a satisfying laxative for the bowels, carminative for the stomach, and a mild diuretic for the kidneys. Give Vendol a trial today. All druggists sell it. Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Synthetic Fabrics Are Easily Cared For In Laundering

With synthetic fabrics taking added importance in the fashion picture and the supply of silks on the wane, here are some valuable suggestions for handling rayons.

A large proportion of the rayon garments on the market at present are washable. These include housecoats, smocks, children's frocks, blouses, and sport dresses, as well as underthings, and they are made of all types of rayons, often two types being represented in the same fabric. For instance, many fabrics are woven with viscose yarns for the warp and acetate yarns for the weft or filling.

If the dye is fast to water and the fabric is not one which shrinks up when wet, then success is assured by washing in lukewarm water with velvet suds made from a pure mild soap. Do not soak any colored fabric even if you think it is fast dye. Prepare the suds and immerse the garment and wash by hand.

Rinse immediately after washing and dry as quickly as possible. Slow drying is sometimes responsible for bleeding of dyes in colored fabrics. To remove moisture quickly, roll in a bath towel for a minute or so. Unroll promptly and press while damp with a moderately hot iron.

NINE GUESTS PRESENT.

Get-Acquainted Party Held By P. T. A. Group

More than 200 were in attendance Thursday evening for the informal get-acquainted party at the Johnny Appleseed Junior high school. The affair was the first meeting of the school's Parent-Teacher association with the new president, Mrs. G. C. Young, presiding. G. W. Harmony, new principal at the school, introduced the faculty members to the parents.

Mrs. Milo Hieber, E. Ray Jenkins and Harold Ramsey were chosen as representatives from the school to the Mansfield Council of Parent Teachers association. Mrs. Hieber and R. Y. Davis reported on the recent council session. During the business session Mrs. Leopold Adams spoke on the need of additional Red Cross workers.

Due to illness the scheduled speaker, Mrs. Stanley Emmett of Columbus, was unable to appear. Mrs. I. W. Basinger spoke to the group on "Membership," setting forth nine essential points as a basis for effective Parent-Teacher co-operation. She was introduced by the program chairman, John Correll.

At the close of the program a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments served in the music room. Mrs. G. W. Harmony and Mrs. Young presided at the attractively appointed serving table. Fruit, leaves and fall decorations were used effectively about the room. Mrs. Freh Huber and her hospitality committee were in charge of arrangements.

The next regular meeting will be held Oct. 23 at the school at which time "Membership and Health" will be the topics discussed.

Town Suits Are Now On Dressy Formal Style

One thing is pretty obvious. The woman who takes dress seriously in the life of a big city will no longer be satisfied with her plain tailored suit for luncheons and so-called informal affairs. Suits for such occasions are definitely on the dressy side of the picture. Jan Thorpe's collection was a typical example of the trend. Two-piece dresses and dress and jacket costumes in thick nubby wools, velvet, faille and jersey were shown here. Jackets followed the longer line, and were often trimmed with fur. Skirts were straight and narrow with fullness worked toward the front. Deep V necklines as well as square necks were shown for daytime, especially gray, chrome yellow and English Vermillion.

Among the evening gowns at this house were a black faille gown with slim bodice and full skirt. Armholes were edged with narrow bands of pink gros de Londres to give a tiny sleeve effect. A pink lame medieval gown had long tight sleeves, and pencil slim skirt, while a black satin dinner dress had a full skirt, short sleeves and diamond-shaped cut-out at throat outlined by black velvet. A magenta brocade dress with low decolletage had a draped Harem hem, a turquoise brocade jacket—another expression of the oriental. Sultana-draping featured a sophisticated dinner dress of chamois crepe in brown with pale blue midriff.

The Bergdorf Goodman collection showed many suits with peplums, the coachman's silhouette, straight, slim skirts for dinner wear, fullness to the back of some of the daytime suits. Rich fabrics included velvets, laces, Colanese creative fabrics, brocades, lames, lush satins and taffetas. Embroideries, furs and jewels added to the general richness.

Throughout the collections, skirts remain about the same length we are accustomed to wearing, with one exception. A new cocktail length—neither long nor short, but below mid-calf—was shown by several houses as heralding a new trend. This remains to be proven by the women who wear it.

Angel Cake Makes Heart Grow Fonder

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

My girl was awfully standoffish. She must have known how much I cared about her, but did she keep me at arm's length! The night before I went to camp, she did actually let me kiss her goodbye. It was the first time I ever kissed her, and there wasn't any lingering about it. Still I treasure the memory of that kiss.

Last week she sent me an "angel cake." I never knew there was such a thing, but it sure was grand. She told me she got the idea of how to make it out of your column, or at least you told her how to stir it up. Now, Miss Fairfax, I want to know if getting an angel cake from a girl means anything. Does it mean she's willing to consider me seriously? Something like going steady, with an idea of becoming engaged in the future? Let me thank you for telling her how to "organize" that cake. It sure was a honey.

DRAFTEE.

Please let me say, my dear Draftee, that the "angel cake" I included in my leaflet "Recipes for Boys in Camp" took the whites of eleven eggs, and considering the price of strictly fresh eggs at the moment, the girl must have had more than a passing interest in you. If the post is not too far from where you live, why not invite her down to see you?

This recipe for angel food, together with a number of good "eats," is available to anyone sending a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope. In this case, angel food and absence evidently is making the heart grow fonder.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I've just finished re-reading Robert Louis Stevenson's "Virginibus Purisque," in which he says if someone takes the peach you've had your eye on before the dish gets 'round to you, you pick out the next one that strikes your fancy.

This is my case exactly. I've been languishing over a particular peach ever since I left college. I'm in the draft now and think it more than likely I shall not serve beyond this year. Frankly, I'd like to settle down with some other peach as my wife, though I haven't met her up to the present time.

J. W. L.

You're very sensible not to waste your youth and chances of a normal happy life on so unresponsive a girl as you describe. Solace yourself with an old adage: "If she be not fair for me, what care I how fair she be?" Let the indifferent peach do the worrying. When you drop out of her life, like thousands of other girls, she'll probably decide, "I never knew I loved him 'til I lost him."

* * *

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We graduated from the same class in high school and then went together for two years after that, when he was sent to another city to open a new office for his firm. He wanted me to marry him so we could go away together, but I didn't think I cared enough for him, and could not think of leaving my parents.

We corresponded for a while but gradually drifted apart, and now after two years I hear he's engaged to someone else, and it has nearly killed me, for I now realize my mistake and know I'll never love anyone else. He has told friends that he could never forget me. Do you think there's still a chance for me?

TROUBLED.

I get many letters like this one from young people who never realized the girl or man they have kept dangling for years was the right one until someone else made the same decision. I wonder if they really do care, or if these eleventh hour discoveries of genuine love are not dismay

By MARIAN MARTIN

Do you want a "dependable" dress that goes everywhere with easy poise? Try this shirtwaist original by Marian Martin—Pattern 9869. You'll like the notched collar, the unusual yoke continued in the bodice buttoning, the narrow panels at either side of the bodice that continue into the skirt. They give you a smooth, up-and-down line that is especially becoming if your hips are not as slim as they should be. The bodice panels may be outlined with ruffles of contrast fabric or lace, and ruffling may also be set in the darts of the short sleeves. The entire back is in one piece, neatly darted for perfect fit. Optional are long or three-quarter sleeves, a tie belt.

Pattern 9869 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards 39 inch fabric and 1½ yards ruffling.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"At 4 o'clock this morning," my father repeated incredulously. "What time did she leave?"

"About seven-thirty last evening," Miss Whitlock replied, and although she was professionally non-committal, a vague, elusive something in her manner told me that she would be glad to be questioned by someone in authority.

If that was her desire, it was promptly gratified, for my father swung his hand toward the library where she had asked us to be seated.

"Will you please come in here with us?" he asked. "Or, wait a moment! Does Mr. Underwood know we are here?"

"I am sure he doesn't," the nurse replied.

"Good!" my father commented. "Then your announcement can wait a little."

Miss Whitlock's Story.

He stepped to one side, for us to precede him, and Miss Whitlock and I went into the library with him close behind us. He set chairs for us, gallantly ushered us into them, and then, drawing one opposite us, he sat down, and, for a long second, looked fixedly at Miss Whitlock.

"Of course," my father began, "I know that ordinarily, you would not reveal or even comment upon anything which happened in a family when you were on a case. But there are unusual circumstances here, as you know, and I hope you will be free to answer the questions which I wish to put to you."

"Because of the unusual circumstances surrounding this case," she said steadily, "and because I came here first at the request of Mrs. Graham, I am willing, indeed, I am anxious to tell you everything I know about the things which have happened. I already have told everything I know to Mr. Underwood, and he is as puzzled as I am. Perhaps you will be able to throw some light on the subject."

"Perhaps," my father said, a bit impatiently, "when I hear what you have to tell me."

"Mr. Underwood hopes you will," the nurse went on imperturbably, and I chuckled to myself at the thought that my imperious father was "getting no change" out of Miss Whitlock.

"More than once since our return," she went on, "he has expressed the hope that you could fulfill your telephoned promise, made to him when he told you we had gone out, to come over here later, and I knew that he is pinning high hopes on you."

"Which will never be fulfilled," my father said testily, "if we do not get on with this."

"Do you wish to put questions to me?" Miss Whitlock asked, "or shall I begin from the first, and tell you everything that has happened?"

The Mystery Letter.

My father gave her one of his rare smiles, and I knew that her ready co-operation in the face of his irritation, had placated him.

"Just tell your story as you remember it, only,—please be sure to go back far enough. I want to get some idea of why she went out, if it be possible."

"I am not sure," the nurse went on, "but I think it all began with a letter that came in the morning's mail.

"The mail is always large, here, as you know," she said, "and Mrs. Underwood went through it hurriedly. When she came to this letter which looked different from the rest, she gave a cry of joy which was almost a shriek, and tore open the envelope. But when she had finished it, she slumped in her chair as if she had received a death blow."

Hasty Dinners Boom To Busy Housewives

By BETSY NEWMAN

SPAGHETTI Hamburg is a dish for the tired business woman to prepare, or for the housewife when she has been spending the day with friends and arrives home just in time to fix a hasty dinner for the family. ## BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DISCARDING BIG ONES

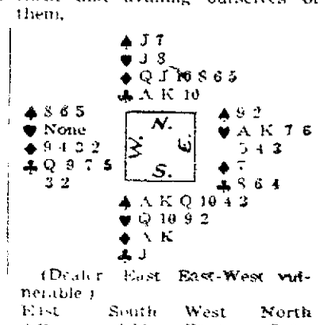
Have you ever had the pleasure of discarding the ace and king of a suit in order to unblock it and thereby create the only chance to make your contract? Opportunity for such plays do not come often, but when they do, we get a great kick out of recognizing them and availing ourselves of them.



(Dealer East East-West vulnerable.)

| Pass | 6 ♠ | | |

When West led the club 5 against this contract, Colonel Robert J. Gill of Baltimore, president of the American Contract Bridge league, recognized a pretty problem and found a pretty solution for it. He was playing in the open pair championship tournament at Asheville, N. C., and did a beautiful job, both in bidding and in play, in spite of the barrier raised against him by East's high opener.

As a matter of fact, that bid helped him to plan safe play of the hand. After letting the club lead run to his J, he cashed the club A and K, discarding on them the diamond A and K. Followed next the diamond Q, J and 10, for three heart discards, and he later gave up a heart, making his contract.

After the hand was over, somebody pointed out that he could have taken all of the tricks if he had first laid down the diamond A and then taken two trumps and three of the dummy's diamonds. That would have enabled him to discard all four of the hearts and make an unbid grand slam.

He had the soundest of all reasons for not doing this. After seeing that the deal would probably not be in a slam contract at all at most tables, and that there were two definite heart losers in the hand if East led against a contract in diamonds or No Trump, he decided to protect his favorable contract by basing his plan on the idea that East might be bland in diamonds. Had East been blank, he could have ruffed the diamond A if that plan had been tried, and then could have taken two heart tricks, setting the contract two.

How would you play this hand for 4 Spades after West leads the club 10?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, Sept. 27.

A lively day with much stirring about, possibly in connection with writings, publishing, advertising or on travel, or other progressive operations where keen insight and swift action count decisively is foreseen. However, there may be some antagonism or opposition from those in power and authority and others may set snares or indulge in intrigue or subtlety.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should have a very lively year, with change, travel, new business and interests incident to this, possibly with agencies, writings, publicity and all literary matters are well augured, although in all affairs, superiors, employers or others in important position seem to withhold recognition or advancement. Resort may be had to subtlety, intrigue or other underhand measures, but in tight places elderly relatives or females may be counted upon for advice and encouragement. A keen and shrewd mind and quick action should win out.

A child born on this day should be versatile and resourceful with the business as well as literary talents. It may be subject to fraud and imposition.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—The country is going to be sold a gold brick thinly coated with banana oil, if congress passes a price control bill that attempts to put no kind of ceiling over wages and rents and restricts ceilings over farm prices to 110 per cent of "parity."

Indeed it is going to be sold a a gold brick if the bill doesn't put a ceiling over all prices.

Johnson

Wages and food are the principal elements of the cost of all things. Rising prices follow rising costs as night follows day. It should be apparent to a high-school sophomore that you cannot stop price advances, especially in the cost of living if you do not control the rise in the elements of cost.

The country understands the reasons for it and demands legislative action to prevent runaway prices. The opposition to stopping runaways in all prices centers on an assertion that it "is too difficult to administer." Yet the advocates of the bill want power to administer piecemeal practically all prices except rents, wages, and food. They want to do that separately in each field if, and only if, they decide to do it.

There will be many more cases to administer, and it will affect 130,000,000 people just as directly on the piecemeal plan as on the over-all ceiling plan, and, as to difficulty of administration, the two cases simply do not compare.

On the over-all method you establish one general rule for all prices—the level as of a certain date everywhere. Both buyers and sellers know what that was. There can't be much dispute about facts. Then you have to deal only with the exception, where changed conditions or changed policies have created a special necessity to charge a particular price upward or downward.

But, under piecemeal price fixing of each price group severally, you have to deal with millions of separate cases. While you are dealing with each regulated group, the unregulated groups continue their advance and all are elements of cost (and price) of the regulated groups. It is a ridiculous impossibility. You must adjust again, continuously upward.

Farm parity is not an inflexible price. It goes up in direct ratio with prices the farmer has to pay. The principle of tying wage increases to increases in the cost of living is exactly the same sort of thing. If farmers and workers are assured of this they have no right to insist on more—certainly not to an absolute freedom to them alone to increase prices. The case will simply not bear argument and that for over-all price control is devastating.

Devastating, yes all but for one thing. The mid-term congressional elections are approaching. Mr. Henderson, as a very unconvincing advocate of piecemeal price-fixing, has intimated in his testimony that he is taking orders from higher-up. Some members of the house banking and currency committee have made it equally clear in their hearings that their judgments are swayed by similar considerations.

This weak-kneed complacency may go down in history as the "crime of 1941." If inflation, meaning unconscionably high costs of living, is not controlled now, no future generations are going to arise to call these gentlemen blessed.

PROFIT CEILING PROPOSAL GETS MIXED GREETING

Taft Strikes at Morgenthau Suggestion, Calls It 'Most Unwise.'

WASHINGTON—Secretary Morgenthau's proposal that corporation profits be limited to 6 per cent drew mixed reaction in the senate finance committee today and Senator Connally (D-Tex.), a member, said present excess profits taxes "should be amended and strengthened."

On the other hand, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), another finance committeeman, called Morgenthau's suggestion "a most unwise and demagogic proposal even for a war-time program."

Connally told reporters he was "not satisfied with provisions of the recently-approved revenue law as regards excess profits."

(The law increased the excess profits tax 10 per cent in each bracket, lifting the bottom-bracket levy from 25 to 35 per cent on excess profits up to $20,000. The top-bracket tax on such profits—those over $500,000—now is 60 per cent.)

(The new law permits corporations to figure excess profits either on the basis of invested capital or the basis of average earnings for the years 1936-39, inclusive.)

"A good many New Dealers," said Taft, "have been inspired for a long time with the theory that profits are wicked and represent a form of extortion from the public."

On the contrary, he asserted, "most profits represent the savings and operations which are affected by ability, ingenuity and persistence and are in strict accordance with American principles."

"Many businesses, especially small businesses, have a small invested capital and have succeeded because of the ability, ingenuity and diligence of those who operate the business," Taft said. "Perhaps they have been profitable because of unusual service to their cutsomers. Perhaps they have devised systems of doing busiess which others have not yet followed."

Taft said he opposed letting anyone profit from war and urged prevention of inflation.

"But inflation would result a great deal more from increased wages and the printing of government paper than from permitting the continuation of peace-time profits, now subject in any event to greatly increased war taxes," he added.

Civilians Join Defense, Don Red Arm Bands; Troops March In Streets.

(By Associated Press)

The trappings of war were added to besieged Shreveport today as fierce fighting between the second and third armies converged on this northwestern Louisiana city of 100,000, situated in the center of the gigantic war games' final round.

Civilians joined in the second army's defense of Shreveport in mock seriousness, donning red arm bands and placing red V's for victory on automobile windshields. Machine guns and artillery were set up at approaches to the city and steel-helmeted infantrymen tramped the streets in battle kit.

To the south, Lieut. General Ben Lear's outnumbered defending forces fought a rear guard action, delaying the slow, steady advance of Lieut. General Walter Krueger's huge third army. Second army defenses were drawn in a semi-circle 50 miles south and east of Shreveport.

The 100-mile line bristled with artillery and machine-gun nests. Anti-tank guns protected vital roadways and anti-aircraft weapons were posted at bridgeheads.

Secrecy shrounded main troop movements on both sides but the third army was known to be massing huge infantry reserves about 50 miles behind the front, supposedly ready to pour through any breach in the line torn by combined armored and mechanized infantry division. Whereabout of General Lear's potent armored force was unknown but it seemed certain it was headed southward, to smash head-on with the mechanized forces of the attacking third army.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

TIME goes swiftly everywhere for the free, of course, but it races at breakneck speed in the bright zone of the entertainment world. One year Ethel Barrymore flashes upon Broadway, a pink-cheeked, bright-eyed ingenue with a throaty catch in her voice . . . and then the clock hands turn, and the leaves of the calendar fall off as they do in cinema montages and skirts get shorter, and Ethel Barrymore is playing a woman—quite an old woman—and it is her niece, Diana Barrymore, who flashes upon Broadway, pink-cheeked and bright-eyed, an ingenue with a throaty catch in her voice.

It's the same wherever there are curtains going up or cameras turning or names in lights. . . . Horseless carriages were novelty when young Frank Craven was playing with his father, John T. Craven, in "The Silver King." . . and then the earth turned a few times, and buildings grew taller, and gold watch chains went out of style . . . and now young John Craven is playing in "Village Green" with Frank Craven, his father.

In 1936, in Hollywood, a little girl who could hit high C, wore bobby socks and rode a bicycle around the sound stages of the Universal lot, and wondered if she would click in a picture called "Three Smart Girls."

Fame was something she dreamed about at night when she'd eaten too many nutbergers; romance was something her older sister giggled about on the front porch; war was something she read about in the history books she studied on the set.

I was reminded of how the years spin only the other night when I saw Charles Chaplin, jr., and Sidney Chaplin, sons of Charles Chaplin, who were in town visiting their mother, the former Lita Grey. They're young yet, only in their teens—but old enough to visit a Broadway nightclub.

Of course when you see them you think of Charlie Chaplin, and when you think of Charlie Chaplin you think of "The Kid." Probably the most memorable foil Chaplin ever had was Jackie Coogan in that picture—Jackie the ragged, wistful, dirty, lovable urchin with the great round brown eyes.

Jackie is in the army now, but his ex-wife, Betty Grable, can be seen around town, making a pretty picture as she dances with her new heart-interest, George Raft.

As an old Saroyan heckler—and one who heckles from the heart, the sympathetic heart—I am happy to say this really happened when Sweet William's "The Beautiful People" played in Brooklyn.

In the middle of the third act two elderly ladies left their seats and dashed out of the theater. They paused for one hysterical, but lucid, moment as they passed the box office.

"We don't know what's going on in there!" one of them screamed—and then they retreated into understandable balm that is Flatbush on a Summer night.

Former Marshal Stunned as Jury Reports After One Hour Deliberation.

(By International News Service)

XENIA — A dazed old man sat in his cell in the Greene county jail today, apparently stunned by the verdict of a jury of nine men and three women which found him guilty of manslaughter in the "firecracker slaying" July 3 of 19-year-old Wallace Collins.

The jury deliberated only an hour before returning its verdict against 72-year-old Hayes A. McLean, former marshal of nearby Cedarville, who fired a blast from the bushes in his yard into a group of boys throwing lighted firecrackers from a moving automobile on the village main street. Collins was wouded fatally.

Judge F. L. Johnson postponed sentence when McLean's attorneys served notice they would file a motion for a new trial tomorrow.

British Officers and Men Study American Tanks

FORT KNOX, Ky.—(U.P.)—Fifty-nine officers and enlisted men of the British armored corps are enrolled in the U. S. army armored force at Fort Knox, it was disclosed today.

While their American "classmates" put in four to six hours daily on the subject, the 16 visiting officers and 43 enlisted Tommies spend at least eight hours daily getting information about the construction and operation of American tanks.

Upon completion of their instruction, the Britons will return home to instruct other mechanics in their armored forces on the whys and wherefores of U. S. tanks.

The visiting men insist they are "fighting soldiers" and not just instructors in the royal armored corps. They are receiving a concentrated course in assembling and dismantling of tanks, driving practice and gunnery.

HIGHER PRICES HIT ARGENTINE MIDDLE CLASS

Shipping Shortage Leads To Sharp Increase In Cost of Living.

BUENOS AIRES—(UP)—The dearth of essential imports, caused by the shipping shortage, is boosting the cost of living for the average Argentine wage earner.

Fuel, certain articles of imported foodstuffs, clothing cosmetics, liquors and sports articles are affected today, and prices continue to rise.

Take the case of Luis Herrera, a typical white-collar worker of Buenos Aires. Herrera's wife, before the war, had little difficulty balancing the family's budget on her husband's monthly salary of 400 pesos (now about $100), but things are different today.

Clothing for men is up about 30 per cent. The suit for which Herrera used to pay 140 pesos (about $35) today costs at least $45, and the suits and overcoats that formerly cost $27 now cost upward of $35. Clothing is made here of British textiles, and as additional British ships go down in the battle of the Atlantic, the shortage of cloth becomes more acute.

Coal, formerly imported from England, has risen to 90 pesos (almost $25) a ton. Small kerosene heating stoves, which sell for about $3 in the United States, cost at least $10 here, and the cost of coal makes heating by electricity or gas prohibitively expensive.

Such commodities as tea have risen from 25 to 50 per cent in price in the past year. Handkerchiefs, neckties, shirts, underwear and stockings cost 30 per cent more than they did a year ago, even if of domestic manufacture, for most of the unfinished materials must be imported

Powder, rouge and lipsticks have risen sharply in price, and if Herrera wishes to buy his wife a bottle of perfume he pays 50 per cent more than a year ago. Besides, the domestic supply is diminishing.

The Herreras have sharply retrenched in their entertaining. Whisky and gin formerly were much cheaper than in the United States. Good Scotch cost $2.25 a bottle a year ago, but it now costs $3.50, and there are no more cocktails or highballs served to the Herrera guests. The Herreras and their friends contine their drinking to native wines, which, however, is the least of the hardships they are called upon to suffer, as Argentine wine is of excellent quality.

Senor and Senora Herrera, also, may soon be forced to give up their tennis, a popular game among Argentines Tennis clubs have advised their members that they can no longer furnish balls, and due to lack of shipping space few tennis balls and other sports supplies are arriving from England. Local sports goods dealers said that three of the last four ships from England with tennis balls aboard were sunk, and second-hand balls are now at a premium.

The United States could supply tennis balls, but due to a shortage of dollar exchange, import permits for such articles are not being extended.

Make them this easy Pillsbury way:

Tender, Fluffy Biscuit Base—1 Sift and measure 2 c Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour (Enriched Pillsbury's Best is no different in flavor or baking quality from the Pillsbury's Best that's earned the preference of millions of American housewives. The two added B vitamins and iron supply vital elements your family needs every day.) Add 3 tsp baking powder (or 2 tsps double acting), 1½ tsp salt and 2 Tbsps sugar; sift twice. 2 Cut in ¼ c shortening until quite fine. 3 Add about ¾ c milk; stir only until flour is dampened. 4 Knead lightly for a few seconds. Feel how soft and tender your dough is—how easy to handle. Sure indications of the delicate, golden brown Date Fluffs you're going to take out of your oven! We know—because we use these same fine results every day from our own ovens. We test Pillsbury's Best every hour during milling—test it by actual baking 4 to 6 times a day. It's truly bake-proved, to protect your baking! 5 Roll out into 10x12 inch rectangle. Cut into eight 2 inch strips. Brush each with melted butter. Stack dough in 2 sets of 4 layers each with this filling between strips:

Succulent Date Filling—1 Combine 1 c. sliced dates, ½ c. water, 1 tsp. grated orange rind, and ¼ tsp. cinnamon. Cook until thick enough to spread. 2 Remove from heat, add ½ c. chopped nut meats. Chill. (Note 4.) 3 Spread on biscuit base. 4 Slice each set of layers into 6 pieces. 5 Place in greased muffin pans, cut side up. Bake in hot oven (400°) 15 to about 20 min. Recipe makes a dozen Date Fluffs. Bring them warm to the table! One bite—your family's delighted with the light, tender fluffiness of biscuit made with Pillsbury's Best. Two bites—they're raving about the combination of melt-in-the-mouth biscuit and chewy date-nut filling!

MANSFIELDERS EYE TAX, STOCK UP ON LIQUOR

State Store Manager Asserts Sales Here at Brisk Pace; Nation Shows Gain.

Mansfielders have been looking to the future in their liquor buying and a number of them are so well stocked that they won't have to pay the new federal liquor tax for a long time, state liquor store sales indicate.

Sales here have shown an increase in the recent weeks, according to Frank C. Poling, manager of the state store on South Park street, and in the entire nation more than twice as much liquor was withdrawn from warehouses in August as in the same month last year.

"The gain here has not been spectacular, but it has been enough to indicate that some buyers are laying up a supply before the tax goes into effect Oct 1," Poling said

New rates are expected to add at least 25 cents a quart to the price of bottled goods purchased by consumers

Liquor production in August was 9 881,044 gallons, about 3 000 000 more than in the similar month last year, but this increase is for another reason Many distilleries are getting ready to turn their plants over to making pure grain alcohol for various defense needs, and are piling up whisky stocks They can get no tax advantage out of this building up of inventories

'Dem Bums' Takes Senior Loop Pennant to Brooklyn

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Massillon's Tigers are singing the blues on the day of the eve of their second football game, an intersectional battle tonight with Marblehead, Mass., at Massillon.

Tiger fans have been told all week, through the medium of the Massillon Evening Independent, just how tough are these hard marbles from Marblehead, how tremendously big they are, and what a bone-crushing fullback they have in a lad named Herbert Carey, and how the Marbleheads, who are sometimes known as the Yachtsmen, and sometimes as the Magicians, have been pointing for Massillon.

* * *

Just to make things more interesting it is related how Coach George Moriarty of Marblehead flew to Massillon last week to see the Tigers play Weirton, W. Va., and returned home not at all impressed by the Massillon brand of football.

And how Massillon junior high coaches, Jim Hollingsworth and Tom Evans, came home after seeing Marblehead romp over Amesbury, Mass., with nothing but praise for tonight's Tiger opponents.

* * *

And then the Tiger in its lair,
Puts out a yarn that smells of bear.

* * *

Yes sir, the Massillons are spilling bear stories today. Four players on the bench with injuries!

Coach Bud Houghton had planned moving Fred "Pokey" Blunt from fullback to right half, moving Chuck Holt up from the second team to fullback to speed up the attack. But Holt is now reported to have a game leg, and Junior White, regular right half, has a charley-horse.

Furthermore John Hill, right guard, came out of the Weirton game with two cracked ribs, and Fred Cardinal, right end, aggravated a groin injury against Weirton and hasn't been able to practice this week.

* * *

Well now, that's too bad. The Mansfield variety of Tyger will be sorry to hear that. The Tyger had counted on the Tiger's going undefeated until the Tyger could get a crack at him. And so, of course, had everyone else on Massillon's tough 1941 schedule. They all wanted to be the first to break the Tiger's victory string.

But if the Tiger continues to get banged up by the big bruisers he's playing in these early season games, the Tyger will be very happy to settle for a victory, whether or not it's the first defeat for Massillon.

But the Tyger isn't counting on it yet. NO SIR!

* * *

Oh, the Tyger that's spelled with a Y
Would gladly claw out the Tiger's I.

* * *

(A tooth for a tooth and an I for a Y, I always say. And don't think the Y hasn't been clawed by the Tiger with an I in times past.)

* * *

Scout Says Elyria Has Scrappers

Mansfield Squad of 29 To Make First Trip.

MANSFIELD won't beat Elyria by any 40 to 0 tonight."

That was the word the Tygers had today from Asistant Coach Vern Hoffman as they prepared to take off for Elyria and their second game of the season tonight. Hoffman scouted the Elyrians last week as Oberlin defeated them 12-6, and the Tygers took their opener from Akron West 40-0.

But Hoffman wouldn't say the Tygers wouldn't win by more than the 7 to 6 margin they chalked up over Elyria a year ago.

* * *

"Elyria didn't lose the Oberlin game," Hoffman declared. "An Oberlin kid named Russell won it with two long runs. He could step through a hole just wide enough for his feet, play tag with the secondary, and then set sail.

* * *

"Russell got away for an 80 yard run in the second period, and Elyria came charging back in a march straight down the field for a touchdown. Gay Marsh's kick for extra point hit the cross bar and bounced back into the end zone. A couple more inches on that kick and they would have led 7 to 6 at the half.

"And in the second half Elyria threatened several times, only to have things go wrong down around the 20 yard line. And again with only two minutes to play that Russell got away on another long jaunt. Elyria didn't look bad, and they'll be fighting to get in the win column this week."

Elyria had a scrappy bunch here last year in a game which was full of fumbles as the green Mansfield team tried too hard. But the Tygers, after getting a 7 to 6 lead were tough to handle on defense and held on in spite of fumbles. It's a veteran Mansfield team this year, while Elyria has only four veterans back.

* * *

A Mansfield fumble on its 20 yard line led to the Elyria touchdown a year ago in the first period, and an Elyria fumble on the five yard stripe paved the way for the Mansfield marker in the second quarter. Jim Templeton went over for the touchdown on the fourth play, and Adam Brandt booted the winning point.

* * *

Elyria, flashing a good passing attack, chalked up eight first downs to four for Mansfield.

The Tygers leave at 5 o'clock this afternoon, with 29 players in the traveling squad.

Office and Enamel Roll Shutouts

Office and Enamel room turned in shutout victories in the Humphryes bowling league at Colony alleys last night, but Maintenance copped scoring honors with a 2,331 total in a 2 to 1 win over Foundry which had 2,237. A 228 handicap gave Maintenance a big edge.

Cleckner had high total of 516 and White had high game at even 200.

T. Hodgson rolled high game of 161 in the Humphryes women's league.

Bears Edge Findlay

Ohio Northern Squad Takes Sluggish Tilt, 7-0.

(By Associated Press)

Ohio Northern's Polar Bears stepped out in front of the Ohio Conference football race today after a sluggish 7 to 0 defeat of Findlay College in the first loop contest of the season.

Northern muffed scoring opportunities in the game played last night at Kenton after Halfback Junior Bray lugged the ball across the goal from the six-yard line in the first period. Stackhouse booted from placement.

Findlay rolled up nine first downs to Northern's 15, but lacked punch in pay territory.

Elsewhere, coaches made last-minute changes in preparation for Saturday tilts.

At Miami University, Coach Frank Wilton shifted Center Will Rogers of Steubenville to right end and began tuning up Bob Harris, Cleveland Sophomore, for service at right half.

Oberlin College Coach Lysle K. Butler scheduled a varsity-frosh game for Saturday to test his charges.

Ohio State Press Box Improved

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The boys who cover Ohio State's grid games have been campaigning for years for an elevator to carry them, their brief cases, typewriters and other equipment, from the ground to that press box perched high on the west side of the stadium.

Jim Renick, praise agent for the Bucks, has been on the side of the scribes, but so far nothing has happened relative to the elevator. Jim did come up with one aid to the writers this year, however, installing a stairway directly into the press box from the lower level, thus eliminating all that pushing and pulling to get through the crowd in front of the glass-enclosed structure. He also eliminated the steel doors in the front, so everyone will get a good look at the proceedings.

Today he launched another stunt which comes under the heading of "influencing people and making friends."

Red cap service from the gate level to the press box will be inaugurated Saturday at the game with "Old Mizzou," Jim providing porters to carry typewriters and other equipment to the press box. And best of all he added the admonition—"No tipping, please!"

Madison Awaits Dennison

Township Team Would Like To Mess Up 4-Year-Record.

With one scalp already hanging from their belts, the Madison Rams will continue their gridiron wars tonight on their home field against Dennison high school—sometimes called "the little Massillon."

Last week while the Rams were salting away a game with the New London Wildcats, 19-13, Dennison was swamping New Concord 62 (plus) to 0. And that "plus" means that that was the score at the beginning of the fourth quarter when spectators got tired adding figures and went home.

* * *

However with Joe Harfman back in the line and one of his boys covering territory on the bench with injuries, Coach Al Fendrick is not conceeding a thing to the Dennison aggregation.

* * *

"If our bays all play their top game and play it for the entire evening," he said, "we might just take this game."

Winning teams from Dennison are not exactly a new thing, however, with the start of this season the Dennison boys went into their fifth undefeated year.

Last week Dennison in playing New Concord was playing a relative "set-up" team compared with what they're getting tonight, Madisons fans maintain.

* * *

Last week they didn't have to bother with tacklers particularly as New Concord players just didn't have the knack of hitting a man and making him stay down.

* * *

But in this department against a tougher New London team Madison sparkled last week. During the second half when the left side of their line settled down, Madison gridders swamped play after Wildcat play behind the line.

And everything they learned last week and in practice this week is going to be needed. In Billy Benedetto and John Williamson, Dennison possesses two fleet and slippery veteran backs that take an experienced and scrappy gang to catch.

Shutout Victory Over Braves Brings First Title Since 1920.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE BROOKLYN DODGERS, long the clown princes of baseball, are the new kings of the National league. Long live the kings!

The kids from Kings county, New York (the same as the borough of Brooklyn to everybody except the district attorney) came through in royal glory at Boston with a 6-0 conquest of the Braves yesterday and clinched their first pennant in 21 years.

The St. Louis Cardinals cooperated by losing a 3-1 decision at Pittsburgh to bring the most strenuous championship struggle in recent years to a sudden stop.

As a result of the victory and defeat, the Redbirds were left 2½ games behind the Dodgers with each club having two games left to play.

Somehow the session at Boston, perfectly played on the part of the Dodgers, seemed like an anti-climax. The Bums had had to battle for every inch in their furious, often frantic, foray against the western clubs of the league and even against the lowly Phillies.

In Boston yesterday they knew they were in and were just marking time. But they certainly can keep time. They never missed a beat.

Whitlow Wyatt, their friendly, baldish pitching ace, who once pitched for Cleveland, produced a masterful five-hit performance to achieve his seventh shutout and 22nd victory of the season. His teammates loosed a vigorous offensive which young Pete Reiser climaxed with a two-run seventh-inning homer. The game had been nailed down, however, when Brooklyn bagged one run in each of the first three innings.

* * *

Max Butcher, a big West Virginia mountaineer who once was with the Dodgers, took care of crimping the Cardinals. He held the Red Birds to five hits, their only run was forced in with a walk.

* * *

Both clubs have open dates today—time for the Dodgers to celebrate and for the Cardinals to lick their wounds. Tomorrow and Sunday the Cards clash again with the Chicago Cubs and the Dodgers finish against the Phils.

All along the Brooks have had a hankering to win 100 games, but they acknowledged on their return home last night that they didn't care much about that goal now. Lefty Larry French was scheduled to start tomorrow's contest.

In the other games yesterday the Cincinnati Reds stormed to a 6-0 decision over the Cubs and the New York Giants squeezed to a 3-2 victory over the Phillies.

All clubs in the American league were idle.

Tribe Opens Last Series In St. Loo

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians—remember them?—open their last series of the season with a doubleheader against the St. Louis Browns here today.

The twin bill may offer the fifth-place Tribesmen their last chance to finish in the first division. It also is probably Bob Feller's last chance to wind up with 25 victories.

Rapid Robert rang up No. 15 well before the halfway mark, but the Indians hit the skids and he went with them. Feller captured 27 last season.

Ontario baseball players will meet the Plymouth Locomotives at 2:30 p. m., Sunday, on the New London diamond, club officials announced today.

Dodgers Run Wild On Train

Tear Shirts and Squirt Champagne Barrage.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK — (AP) — Brooklyn went batty over its new National league pennant today but nobody was nearly as delirious as the Dodgers themselves.

During the four hours it took their special train to make the trip home from Boston last night they steamed up the greatest celebration any baseball team ever has had for the clinching of a championship.

* * *

President Larry MacPhail, who had remained here to pass out World Series tickets, set up the party with a telephone call to Boston stocking the train with champagne.

* * *

The wheels hardly had started rolling before the corks started popping—and by the time the effervescent entourage pulled into Grand Central station a little before midnight the Dodgers were hilarious and the train was a wreck.

The Dodgers let down their hair and howled—and it was something to behold.

Somebody thought it would be fine to rip the shirt off Coach Charley Dressen and before his chummy companions were finished they had him almost in the nude. Then they started on each other and more shirts were ripped to pieces within a few minutes than a laundry could do in 10 years.

All the blinds in the dining car were torn down, too.

Peewee Reese and Pistol Pete Reiser prowled up and down the aisles squirting everybody with champagne, until the kids were tipped off that that was something to drink. Then they turned to shampooing the porters and waiters with creamed spinach.

This went on for hours and for miles and miles—but you get the general idea.

It was the unbelievable end of an unimaginable tour that lasted for two weeks and was more like a traveling circus than a ball club on a business trip.

The whole gang stepped off the train headlong into a worshipful welcome from some 7,000 fans who packed Grand Central terminal for a glimpse of the conquering heroes.

Pros Prepare For Hard Game Against Akron Club

The City News Mansfield professional gridders will take a squad of 23 players to Akron Sunday for their first big game of the season with the South Akron Awnings.

* * *

The Awnings this year are reported to be tougher than ever, and are challenging any and all independent mid-west teams, recently sending out game offers to no less than 50 teams in an effort to build a tough schedule.

* * *

The Mansfield pros will be gunning for revenge however, believing that if they had been in condition last year they'd have given the Awnings a real battle. A physical beating at McKeesport, Pa., the week before the Akron game left the Mansfielders in no condition for another hard game.

This year the City News club has had two weeks rest since their easy opening victory over the Lorain Ex-Hi's, and are reported in the pink for Sunday's tilt.

The two weeks haven't been spent entirely in rest, however. Coach Earl McMullen has been drilling his athletes daily in an effort to smooth out rough spots that cropped up in the Lorain game, and improve the pros' offensive.

* * *

Players listed for the trip Sunday are: F. Dials, E. Dials, Beer, Bucher, Lehman, Miles, Radovich, Sturgeon, A. Schwaner, V. Schwaner, Lockhart, Luckie, Zediker, Hogan, S. Popovec, Ferguson, Russell, Au, Eyerly, R. McMullen, Powell and Schwartz.

* * *

The last two players have joined the team since the Lorain game. Powell is a former Wilberforce star, while Jack Schwart berforce star, while Jack Schwartz is a former Mansfield high tackle.

Rams Ready For Denison

Fendrick has been drilling his team in how and where to hit these backs and how and where to knock Dennison linemen about when Madison has the ball.

* * *

Profiting from last week's mistakes in blocking around the ends, Fendrick claims his team is going to know about this gentle art.

"We're going to knock somebody down this week and our ball carriers are going to run full tilt without catching up with their own blockers," he said.

In any event tonight at 8 p. m. Mansfielders can learn the answer to this question mark relating to who's going to win by going to Madison's stadium.

Probably starting lineups for both Mansfield and Dennison follow:

| Madison | Pos | Dennison |
|---|---|---|
| Fletcher | L E | McGary |
| Garns | L T | Cortright |
| Batson | L G | Trimmer |
| Spriesterbaugh | C | Cerveilini |

| Don Stone | R T | Yoshall |
| Wynn | R E | Van Fossen |
| Wynn | Q B | Benedetto |
| Windsor | L H | Trimmer |
| Hammer | R G | Fair |

Buckeyes Take Grid Spotlight

Missouri Coach Has Hankering For Revenge.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — There's a score of games on the Buckeye state's football slate this weekend, but the spotlight shines brightest on Ohio State's stadium where Missouri and Coach Paul Brown's scarlet-clad gladiators clash Saturday at 2 p. m.

Two years ago, in the first meeting between the Big Six and Big Ten squads, Missouri and its mighty Paul Christman fell 19 to 0. But this is another year, and Missouri, with 16 returning lettermen and a flock of scintillating sophomores, is conceded a definite edge over the slower and undermanned Bucks.

* * *

Brown, with some fair sophomores and the remnants of last year's disappointing team, will rely on a precision offense and a hard-tackling defense to make up for the slowness of his talent.

* * *

The Bucks worked out yesterday, strictly polishing up. Today's program called for only 10 minutes of signal practice.

Missouri was to delay its arrival here until tonight, passing up a chance to get in an afternoon workout at the stadium. Coach Don Faurot of "Old Mizzou" has a two-fold desire to win, one being to erase the memory of 1939's setback, and the other to convince Ohio State it made a mistake in its choice of coaches.

When Coach Francis A. Schmidt resigned after last season's won-four lost-four campaign, Brown and Faurot were the leading candidates for the job. The choice finally narrowed down to the two, but Ohio selected the Massillon high school mentor and left Faurot out in the cold.

Early this fall, Faurot said:

* * *

"If hustle, drive and a flaming competitive spirit are the elements necessary to make a colorful, entertaining football team, Missouri grid followers are in for a treat this fall. Speed, deception, power and plenty of body-attack will comprise our attack. We're not looking for those blocks and tackles this fall—we're listening for them."

* * *

"Either we have it, or we haven't," the Buck mentor said. "Saturday will tell the tale."

On tonight's slate are Ohio U. at Youngstown, Detroit Tech at Dayton, Akron at Muskingum, Butler at Xavier, Georgetown at Marietta, Rio Grande at Denison, with Hiram meeting Baldwin-Wallace at Berea this afternoon.

Saturday's tilts take Wooster to Bowling Green, Heidelberg to Otterbein, Bluffton to Kent State, Capital to Valparaiso, Albion to Ohio Wesleyan, Louisville to Cincinnati, Western Michigan State Teachers to Western Reserve, Defiance to Earlham, St. Josephs to Toledo, Mount Union to W. & J., and Wabash to Miami. Sunday calls for De Sales at Canisius.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—Over in Brooklyn they're insisting that it wasn't a hurricane at all that struck Texas—only the concerted sigh of relief from Dodger fans throughout the country when they realized The Bums were safely "in." . . . It wasn't anything compared with the storm that hit Flatbush and its environs last night. . . . The Brooklyn Eagle splashed it all over the front page in two words, "We Win." . . . Larry MacPhail busted down and cried when Joe Medwick phoned him to congratulate him, but he didn't weaken on his decision that the players had to keep out of the victory celebration planned for tomorrow. So the dinner was called off. . . . It's the fans' series anyway. They haven't had one in Brooklyn for 21 years while eight Dodger players and Coach Chuck Dressen have had world series experience. . . . Now instead of "Wait till next year" the boys are hollering, "Wait till next Wednesday."

* * *

TAKE A CHANCE DEPT.

Football special for Friday is Hapes and Hovious to hit Hoyas hard—or Ole Miss can't miss. . . . This Dept. also likes Washington State over U. C. L. A.

* * *

CLEANING THE CUFF.

Manager Julian Black figures that about $7,000 of Joe Louis' income will go to pay for three weeks' training at Greenwood Lake although the gate for his camp exhibition covers part of it. . . . Notre Dame has banned portable radios and movie cameras at its home games this season. . . . Bill (Bobo) Spencer, Missouri's crack place-kicker, warmed up the other day by booting 35 in a row, then came back after a breather to kick 36 straight.

Nova Ready For Louis

Looks Better Than Ever In Last Workout Yesterday.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — Looking back on Joe Louis' fights and recalling the ferocity with which he has torn into the big fellows he could hit easily, practically ruining them with a pair of punches, it takes a lot of will power to pick Lou Nova to win the heavyweight championship from the big colored boy.

There is the additional hazard that most "professionals" of the fight game—the men who undoubtedly know the business best—are stringing along with the Bomber. Perhaps a score of managers, trainers and promoters encountered yesterday at Nova's camp virtually were unanimous in believing that the champion would belt Nova out inside 10 rounds when they meet Monday night at the Polo grounds.

But the writer happens to have had a hunch for a long time that Nova was the one fighter with the physical equipment and the heart required to whip Louis, and there is no sense in backing down now. Maybe he won't, and maybe he will be only another heart-broken heavyweight after he has sampled the Louis dynamite, but it will be after a terrible fight. That much is certain.

In his final workout yesterday, Nova probably looked better than anybody ever saw him. He is as ready as a fighter possibly can be and is punching harder than ever before. He still is absolutely convinced he has the title in his grasp.

Louis will clout him many a time, probably will have him on the floor not long after the bell rings. But the surest thing in the world is that Nova will get up.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.—(U.P.)—When a fire broke out in the home of Frank Williams in nearby Washington Park, there was a comedy at the firehouse, but a tragedy for Williams.

The doors of the firehouse jammed and the apparatus could not get out of the building. Fire Chief Andy Snider set out in his own car with a tank of chemical to fight the blaze, but before the firehouse was opened and the equipment arrived, the home had burned down.

Steadier Tendencies Seen as Leaders Make Gains In Quiet Dealings.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks tried for recovery in today's market after yesterday's sharp tumble and, while many leaders were mildly successful, trends remained somewhat spotty.

Steadier tendencies were apparent at the start. Dealings were quiet.

Attracting modest early bids were Bethlehem, Chrysler, Woolworth, Deer, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse and General Electric.

Behind occasionally were Republic Steel, General Motors, American Telephone, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Boeing and United Aircraft.

Sentiment, dampened Thursday by announcement the treasury was working on a bill to restrict corporate profits to 6 per cent, stiffened moderately, brokers said, as word from Washington led to the belief congressional opposition to the measure was likely. War and business news provided little in the way of speculative inspiration.

Market observers scanned the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which said that retail spending throughout the country this week, while expanding seasonally, failed to equal the year-to-year increases of recent months. Retardents were seen in warm weather and diminished forward purchasing by consumers.

Ruptured persons who have been delaying treatment or who have unsatisfactory trusses should investigate the unusual features of the DOBBS TRUSS. Health is your greatest asset. Health is the foundation of earning capacity. The DOBBS TRUSS is different from the conventional type trusses. It holds the rupture up and in with a CONCAVE PAD, possessing a cross body pressure holding just like the hand.
Nature teaches you not to place a bulb, ball or any convex pad into the rupture opening. You should be absolutely sure the truss you now wear does not force the already weakened muscles further apart. Circulation is important, too.
The DOBBS TRUSS is sanitary. Wear in bath or swiming.

HITS PROBE AS ANTI-BRITISH

Senator Calls For Dies Action on Investigation of 'Propaganda' Films.

had made statements far beyond the scope of the hearing.

"The only purpose is to create prejudice against the British empire and undermine the policies of President Roosevelt," said McFarland. "I don't like it and I'm going to fight it. I'm one who believes in the policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt and I don't want to listen to speeches that strike at his patriotism."

McFarland said that if the movie propaganda investigation question went to the floor "you wouldn't get 18 votes for it."

He then said he would ask the Dies committee to investigate to determine "who is giving this false prejudicial stuff to you senators."

"I also will ask the Dies committee to investigate who gave Sen. Nye information that the government is controlling motion pictures," he declared.

Sen. Clark broke in. "I notice that people never holler unless they are pretty badly hurt."

"I'll guarantee that you are going to be the one that gets hurt before this is over," retorted McFarland.

The Arizonian, who has repeatedly criticized the inquiry, said he didn't sleep much last night.

"I'm worried about this," he said. "I think this is a time when people should work in unity."

Meanwhile, Wendell L. Willkie, general counsel for the movie industry, declared that the senate hearing "is one of the first attempts to suggest to the American people what they should read or see."

The ex-presidential candidate strongly inferred that the senate committee conducting the hearing is treading Nazi paths and emphasized that pro-German literature has been rejected in this country.
